Weaver Appeals Cutback

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Dr. John C. Weaver, president of the University of Missouri today asked the Senate Appropriations Committee to restore the $5 million cut in operating funds between the university request and the amount recommended by the governor and approved by the House.

Dr. Weaver said the House appropriation is a strong one. But he added MU must move up in order to stand still because of the intensive competition throughout the country for talented faculty.

"Faculty quality determines the real quality of the university," he said.

The House approved an operation appropriation of nearly $59 million for the four MU campuses.

Dr. Weaver said the University of Missouri is a good university but not a distinguished one—"We presume the intent of the legislature is for improvement."

The university president said if the governor's $5 million cut can be restored the school can at least partially catch up with the salary levels offered by other state supported universities in this area.

The design would be to handle salary increases on three levels.

There would be almost no increase for a portion of the faculty that is needed to keep a status quo in higher education.

A substantial increase is needed for some faculty members because it would cost more than the increase to replace them.

And there would be a top echelon of key faculty members "we must retain or recruit to make a better university."

He said the university's request would provide overall but not across the board increases of about 10 per cent. The governor's recommendation would cut that to between 7 and 8 per cent.

Dr. Weaver noted that increases also must be made for the maintenance and clerical staffs because those employes are now unionized and present scales are only 60 to 75 per cent of union scales.

Land Bank Citations to Coleman and Schneider

William A. Dickison of St. Louis, former president of the St. Louis Federal Land Bank, speaking on the 50th anniversary of the founding of the National land bank system told audience of farming's growth compared to operations when he joined the bank in 1924.

"When God created the earth he must have had in mind Southeast Missouri, because you have the garden spot of the world," Dickison said at the celebration last night at the Holiday Inn.

Hal Robertson, manager of the Sikeston Federal Land Bank association, was master of ceremonies.

He introduced board members and called them to join in cutting a three-tiered birthday cake.

Two outstanding service plaques were given at the banquet. The first went to Howard Schneider, East Prairie, president of the association and the other to E. P. Coleman.

The Coleman citation read: "The Federal Land Bank's 50th anniversary medal, authorized by the Congress and the President of the United States, is presented to E. P. Coleman, Jr., for outstanding contributions to American Agriculture."

Dickison served the Federal Land Bank system 40 years before his retirement.

"I would like to tell you what has taken place over the years," Dickison said. "In the beginning years there were but 900 loans made for an average of $1,800 each, while today they average $25,000 each.

"Today there are 12,000,000 people on farms or seven per cent of the population, but this segment today has an income of $45 billion with a net income of 32 per cent, with an average increase of four percent per year. The farm debt last year was $40 billion, and will double in 1980.

Clinic Chief Seeks Temporary Office

David Ragan, 42, administrator of the regional diagnostic clinic for the mentally retarded, is seeking a temporary office to occupy here until the clinic building is completed, scheduled for Dec. 1.

The clinic with beds for 40 patients will be located on a site east of the Missouri Delta Community hospital and will have a staff of 48. It will be one of nine in the state in a new public health program.

He has served as director of the Delmo Housing Corporation at Lilbourn seven years, supervising projects in 10 communities in five Bootheel counties.

Ragan began his new work March 1 with a tour of other clinics and at schools for training the mentally retarded.

He spent three weeks at the Springfield and Joplin diagnostic clinics, several days in Jefferson City with the state health department's division of mental diseases, one day each at the Marshall state training school, Cardinal Glennon hospital at St. Louis and the St. Louis training school.

One of his first tasks will be to employ a plant maintenance engineer to begin work Aug 1.

Ragan holds a masters degree in social work from Ohio State University in Columbus.

Ragan was born April 11, 1925 in Princeton, Ind. He graduated from Princeton high school in 1941, and from Ohio State in 1951 following service in the marines.

He was a member of the 14th Marine regiment, fourth marine division, with 22 months service in the Pacific during World War II. He served in

Residents Complain About Flies

A petition to have a barn and storage shed removed from a lot east of Ables Road at its juncture with Shady Lane was presented to the city council and tabled after discussion during a Monday night meeting at the city administrative building.

About 20 to 25 residents of the area signed the petition. It was presented to City Manager W. Raymert Miller Monday afternoon. The major complaint is that the keeping of horses at the barns draws flies to the neighborhood.

The flies are a nuisance, particularly during summer, Miller reported that residents complained.

Miller reported to the council that he had discussed the matter with Fred Matthews, the property owner and said that Matthews is in the process of correcting the problem. One of the buildings has been removed and the horses are being kept in the south corner of the lot, Miller said.

A request by the Frisco railroad to install stop signs at four railroad crossings in town was referred to the traffic committee.

A slide program was used by Halsell to explain the MCB five star program, which includes education, utilities, transportation, community and answered by Halsell:

What is community betterment? It is a program of immediate community self improvement. In the process of self - analysis for improvement a community will generally get a much better idea of what it is capable of attaining, Halsell said.

Why have community betterment? For the sole reason of making your own community a better place in which to live is an adequate reason, Halsell pointed out.

Who can participate? This is everyone's program - from the governor of Missouri to the state's newest resident. It is especially important to the young people who will soon be looking for employment.

How can you as a community benefit from MCB? Improvements within the community boost the development of the social, industrial and economic possibilities, which in

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
THE REBELLION OF YOUTH

Most of us remember the warning of Thomas Babington Macaulay that if the United States of America were ever destroyed it would be from within.

Some of us know of Arnold Toynbee's statement: "Of 21 notable civilizations, 19 perished, not from conquests from outside, but from decay within."

We believe these statements point up the significance of the youth protest movement which brushes aside traditional moral standards. It goes further than the protesters; it involves the nation as a whole.

There is no point in trying to tell our rebellious youth that they are acting irrationally. They have a rationale all their own which they sincerely believe.

1. The older "generation" would have liked to "swing" but were too inhibited and hypocritical. At least, many grownups seem to enjoy the wave of pornography which documents the "new freedom."

2. The "work and win" idea is old hat. Economic security has become automatic. Hard work and hard thinking are now done by automation and computers.

3. The world is in a mess - a mess made by their elders and, while the protestors don't know the answers, they are eager to tear up the present rule book. Whatever takes its place, in their opinion, is bound to be better.

4. Old-fashioned morality is a strait jacket arbitrarily imposed on youth to perpetuate outmoded standards, ranging from short haircuts to premarital chastity.

Perhaps there is nothing we can do about these young people. Wherever they are going, they are going on their own. We can hope, of course, that by the time they mature they will have become so bored with sexual freedom and with "hangovers" from "escape" drugs that they will rediscover (and consider brand new) the basic values of life which produce a genuine lasting happiness. They might even swing full circle and start a new Victorian age.

But there is something we can do about the oncoming generation. The big clue is that the "swingers" and "hipsters" get that way while going through the educational process. We must find out what the influences are, where they come from, and how they can be replaced with constructive influences.

SEWARD'S WONDERFUL FOLLY

Observations of the centenary of America's acquisition of Alaska will center on Sitka, the site of an old Russian trading center, on Thursday (March 30.)

The price looked dear a hundred years ago, and people called it "Seward's Folly" or "America's Icebox." The folly was the 586,400 square miles of Alaska, for the purchase of which W. H. Seward, Secretary of State for President Andrew Johnson, signed a treaty with Russia on March 30, 1867. The price was a huge $7.2 million.

Even at what the dollar was worth then, it was a historic bargain. What we got was a land two and one-fifth the size of Texas. It was gold rich, but most of that blew in the Klondike gold rush of 1897-1899. Even so, total value of mineral output in 1965 was $83,489,000, of which $33,835,000 was in oil and $1,505,000 in gold. Also important are coal, silver, natural gas, mercury, uranium, platinum, gravel, sand, and rich oil shale. Not a bad return for the investment.

Alaska became an Organized Territory in 1912. It was voted into the Union as the 49th state on June 30, 1958, and officially became a state by Presidential proclamation on Jan. 3, 1959. The largest political subdivision of the United States, it occupies the Northwest portion of North America, north of 51 degrees N. Lat., bounded on the north by the Arctic Ocean, east by the Canadian Yukon territory and British Columbia, west by the Bering Strait and Bering Sea, and arm of the Pacific, and south and southwest by the Gulf of Alaska and the Pacific Ocean.

It has a general ocean coastline of 4,750 miles - including all its islands, 33,904 miles. It has numerous mountains, fjords, volcanoes, and glaciers.

Southern Alaska was hit on Good Friday, March 27, 1964, by the most powerful earthquake ever recorded in North America. Among places suffering severe damage were Anchorage, Seward, Cordova, Kodiak, and Valdez. The quake caused 115 deaths and lifted some 23,000 sq. miles of land as much as 33 feet. Federal aid, not counting state and local relief, came to $336 million.

Russian traders, moving south from Alaska, which was discovered by Vitus Bering, a Dane employed by Russia, had established a fort as early as 1816 in what is now California. Five years later, in 1821, the Czar gave a Russian company exclusive rights in coastal territory as far south as the 51st parallel, which runs through what is now British Columbia. Russia was a partner of Austria and Prussia in the Holy Alliance, which was suspected of wanting to help Spain recover its American colonies.

In the document establishing the doctrine named after him, President James Monroe told the Russians in 1823 that "the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

Came the purchase in 1867, and the territory was ours. We have never had cause to regret the outlay. Particularly not the more than 253,000 Americans who live there, including Eskimos, Indians and Aleuts. On this centennial year, a salute to Juneau, the capital, and all Alaska is proper.

WE ARE WITH HIM ALL THE WAY

Governor Warren E. Hearnes continues to decry the unfairness of the federal government programs that force states to accept mandatory expenditures. The validity of this and the importance of it cannot be over-emphasized.

In speaking at a Founders' Day dinner of the West Point Alumni Association last week, he cited two basic areas in which this unfairness is apparent. He said:

"First, we did not enter the programs with knowledge that we could incur penalties later through new legislation.

"Second, we enter some of these programs and find federal funds reduced or withdrawn unless we accept later provisions."

What clear-thinking individual can be at odds with the Governor when he points out that his obligation is to keep the state government financially strong by operating on a budget and staying within it?

Or, when he says that "any increase in state tax should result from decisions of a state's people and their elected representatives - not from federal legislation"?

It is crystal clear that launching out on any program (whether it be federal, state, city or personal for that matter) which in the end would result in fiscal chaos or unavailable funds needed to keep it going is the height of folly.

Of equal, if not more, significance is the involvement of surrender of freedom. When the entity of the individual state is absorbed by the power of the federal government, the individual freedom of citizens will go down the drain at the same time.

Too many groups and individuals are clamoring for money from the federal government with utter disregard for the consequences, for their belief in basic principles, or for the arbitrary position the federal government can assume with them.

Not only should "creative federalism" be a matter of grave concern on the part of the Missouri governor and all Missourians, but to every governor and to all citizens of the other 49 states.

There are many individuals who concur with Governor Hearnes in his challenge concerning mandatory federal programs, but who are strangely negligent in giving him firm backing by action and are reluctant to face facts realistically.

The undue concern with which the people of the different states over the nation are allowing decisions to be made for them as a result of federal legislation, particularly in the area of state tax, is alarming.

When Governor Hearnes says, "the trend should be reversed", we are with him all the way. We believe no solid citizen can do otherwise. - Warrensburg State Journal

The Missouri State Highway Patrol made 98,592 arrests last year. This was an increase of 21 per cent over the number of arrests made in 1965. More than 95 per cent of these arrests were classified as "traffic" or motor vehicle and associated arrests. The remaining arrests were in the criminal misdemeanor and felony category.

The Patrol made 93,891 motor vehicle arrests last year, 58,204 of which were for hazardous moving traffic violations. This was an increase of 29 per cent over the number of these arrests made during the previous year. Among the offenses included in this category of arrests are those relating to careless and imprudent driving and driving while intoxicated.

Of the persons arrested for hazardous moving violations, 45,903 had not been drinking. The greatest number of arrests in this category was for exceeding the daytime speed limit.

Those persons arrested by the Patrol for moving violations involving drinking numbered 8,408 last year. This was an increase of 23 per cent over the number of arrests for drinking made in 1965. The number of driving while intoxicated arrests classified as motor vehicle misdemeanors totaled 3,849 during 1966. There were also 42 driving - while - intoxicated felony arrests made by the Patrol. Under Missouri statutues, the first two convictions for driving while intoxicated are misdemeanors, but the third and subsequent offenses are felonies. The remaining 4,517 persons arrested for drinking were not considered legally intoxicated under Missouri law.

In addition to the arrests made by the Patrol last year, the troopers issued warnings to 244,588 persons for minor infractions of the law.

INFALTION HITS EVERYONE

Not the least vicious aspect of inflation is the tendency to set one group against another, each claiming the other is gouging the public with high prices. As a matter of fact, inflation plays no favorites, and you don't have to be an economist to figure this out. As food prices continue to reflect inflationary governmental fiscal policies that steadily push down the value of the dollar, some people suspect that the farmer, the processor or the distributor is making a killing at the expense of consumers. People do not realize that, in a free competitive market, prices inevitably find the fairest level commensurate with natural laws of supply and demand.

The meat industry, from the farmer to the consumer for example, functions in a free market, and it is highly competitive. Meat packers operate on the narrowest of profit margins. Rising prices do not mean fat profits. Far from it. One major company has reported a serious drop in earnings during a recent six-month period. Company officials said a reduction in the supply of hogs, constant pressure on margins, low volume, high prices and high operating costs were all to blame for the slump.

There, in brief, is the story of inflation. It hits everyone over the long pull. The truly remarkable part is that industries such as meat packing have kept abreast of the demands of a rising population--not only have kept abreast, but have been instrumental in sustaining a steady upward trend in living standards. Inflation or no inflation, if you do not believe this you have but to look at the meat and grocery counters in the nearest supermarket --and one is not very far away. You will see an abundance, the like of which the world has never known. It is there because industries that operate in a free market are the most productive and the most effieicent--attributes that virtually guarantee fair and reasonable prices.

A small town grocer employed a good-looking girl as clerk who helped him rearrange the shelves so that the raisin bread was at the very top. Accordingly, she had to climb a ladder to reach it.

The town cut-ups were quick to take advantage of the situation, and all agreed that the view was spectacular. Finally the oldest inhabitant showed up and asked for raisin bread. The girl climbed the ladder, and when she was almost up she looked down, apparently having forgotten what he asked for, and said, "Raisin?"

"Nope," said the old fellow. "Just twitchin."

MEANINGLESS GOVERNMENTS?

Governor Hatfield of Oregon is concerned over the possibility of the federal government dominating American education. And this concern is certainly justified. The federal aid to education bill passed by the last Congress gave the government sweeping and unprecedented powers and responsibilities in this field.

In the Governor's view, as stated in a news story, there must be a compact among the states under which ". . . the states will develop national policies for education and make suggestions for the improvement of the policies for education and make suggestions for the improvement of the schools. No state will lose any of its powers, because no state can be forced to accept any suggestions. Under our present system, the federal, state and local levels each have a role. But the system will be fragmented unless we have something like the compact."

What is true of education, it can be added, is true of all manner of activities which are traditionally within the rights and obligations of nonfederal government -- but into which the heavy hand of the federal bureaucracy has been increasingly extended.

The steady diminution of state and local responsibility and authority is one of the more ominous developments of the time. Unless these units assert themselves -- through action, not just words -- they will ultimately become governments in name only, and their existence will be meaningless.

A young woman had just finished her first aid course and upon leaving the instructional center spied a man looking face down over a flooded gutter. She ran to him, flipped him on his back and began to apply mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

The man suddenly sat up pushed the woman away. "I don' know what you have in mind lady," the man said, "but I'm supposed to be opening this drain!"

Planning a vacation stay in Florida, the traveler didn't know what to do with his dog. He decided to write the hotel and ask if dogs were allowed.

Promptly, the hotel manager wrote back: "I've been in this business for 30 years. Never have I called on the police to eject a disorderly dog. Never has a dog set fire to a bed with a cigarette. I have never found a hotel towel or blanket in a dog's suitcase. Nor a whiskey ring on a dresser. Sure, the dog is welcome."

And the manager added a postscript: "If the dog will vouch for you, come along, too."

H.L. Hunt Says

CASTRO THE TROUBLEMAKER

Fidel Castro's Cuba, not content with continuing efforts to export Marxism revolution in the Western Hemisphere, is now engaged in trying to stir up trouble in a number of African nations.

Arms and military missions have been sent into several countries. Technical advisors from Cuba have spread out over Africa. Political activities are directed from Cuban Embassies. Antiwestern propaganda is airwaved from Cuba to Africa in English, French and Swahili.

Castro's efforts are tailored to the individual country. Support goes to rebel groups trying to overthrow existing moderate governments in the former Belgian Congo, Chana and Cameroon. The Cuban communists work with leftists already in power in Brazzaville Congo, Mali, Guinea and Tanzania. And they strive to ingratiate themselves with regimes they think can cause trouble for the West, as in Egypt, Algeria, Iraq and Syria.

For example, in Guinea and Tanzania one of the functions of the Cuban missions is to equip and train anti-Portuguese rebels for attacks against Portuguese Guinea and Moambique. In Brazzaville Congo, Cuban troops are the mainstay of the anti-U.S. government of Alphonse Massamba-Debat. Numbers of Africans are being sent to Cuba for military, technical and political training. When they return to their home countries, they have of course been thoroughly indoctrinated with the communist ideology.

These are some of the results of allowing the cancer of communism to develop in an island just 90 miles from the U. S. mainland. Africa is said to be a continent in ferment, and the communists will keep it that way. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Biggest backstage lobbying drive on Capitol Hill right now is being staged by natural gas companies to gut the pipeline safety bill now scheduled for hearing before the Senate Commerce Committee April 19. The lobby has been so effective that the Johnson administration, which roared in like a March lion with an excellent pipeline safety bill, seems about to retreat like a March hare.

Chief lobbyists are the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, the American Gas Association, and the Columbia Gas Transmission Company. They have unleashed a terrific pressure drive on two fronts:

Front No. 1 is the White House and Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd.

Front No. 2 is Congress. Congressmen are being given the carrot - and - stick treatment -- campaign contributions for them if they vote right; campaign contributions against them if they vote wrong.

What spurred the Johnson administration to ask for the pipeline bill was the catastrophic fire in Queens, N. Y., on January 13 when old and rusted pipelines leaked, and escaping gas, catching on fire, sent a sheet of flame through 12 city blocks. No fire fighting squad could cope with it.

THE LOBBY'S DEMANDS

Despite this tragedy, the gas industry is battling for the following drastic modifications of the administration's pipeline safety bill:

1. No criminal penalties for failure to remedy defective pipeline. The drug companies are subject to criminal penalties if they make a mistake in labeling or manufacturing harmful drugs; but the pipeline companies want no punishment if they let rusty pipe explode.

2. No safety standards for distribution lines. These are the lines that pass through cities such as that which caused the fire in Queens. The gas companies want the bill to apply only to long distance transmission lines between cities, not inside cities where the population is dense and the danger greater.

3. Provision that safety standards must be drawn up by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. These have been so weak in the past that the standards of some gas companies exceed them. Requirement that the government standards be based on the ASME code would turn the law into a sham.

4. Requiring that any inspection to determine pipeline compliance be under he same American Society of Mechanical Engineers, thus rounding out this unabashed move by the gas industry to control itself.

Despite the catastrophic fire in Queens and other pipeline disasters from Louisiana to Kentucky, Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd and Joseph Califano of the White House staff are reported weakening. They don't seem to realize that LBJ is vulnerable on anything pertaining to natural gas. When he was senator from Texas, he was the gas and oil industry's most effective spokesman.

PEACE AND OUTER SPACE

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is about to award a contract for peace-planning to a company which does 68 per cent of its business with the defense department. In addition, one of its executives is a former central intelligence official.

The contract is for $283,000 to survey the peacetime uses of satellites. The space agency wants to demonstrate that satellites are not going to be stationed in outer space as military outposts or espionage units.

It's true that some satellites are now used for spying purposes and take pictures of Russian military bases as they orbit the earth. But the space agency wants to get away from this and demonstrate that satellites can be used not only to transmit radio, TV and telephone messages, but improve agriculture as well.

Despite this, NASA is about to award the "Peace" contract to the Planning Research Corporation, which admits that 68 per cent of its business is with the defense department and whose manager of economics, Norman H. Jones, was a deputy at central intelligence.

NOTES FROM DIXIE

Watch for Bobby Richards, former second baseman for the New York Yankees, to run for congress against Democrat Tom Gettys of Rock Hill, S.C. Gettys has cut no ice in Washington, aside from voting for the big bankers against Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana, Tex. . . . Jimmy Byrnes, ex-Governor of South Carolina and former secretary of state under Truman, differed with Truman over Russia at the end of the war and eventually resigned. Byrnes went to Moscow to try to patch up relations with our important war - time ally, but Truman scolded him immediately after he got back . . . Today, President Johnson is following, in effect, the Byrnes policy of friendly relations with Russia. But the two South Carolina senators voted the other way when it came to ratification of the USA-USSR Counsular Treaty. They were against this move to improve relations.

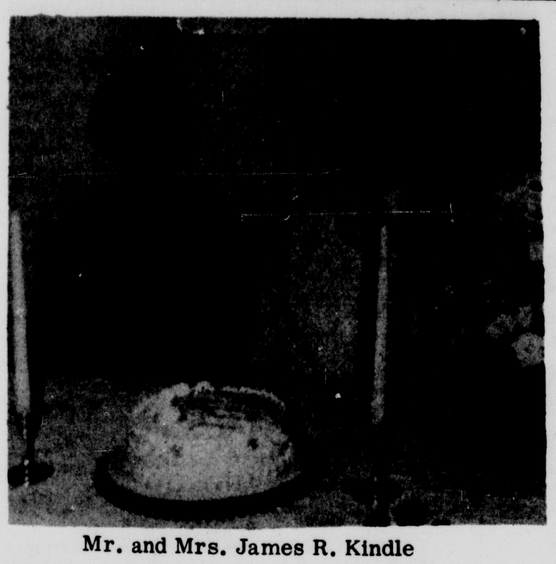

CAPITAL CHAFF

John Connor has told friends that he resigned as Secretary of Commerce because President Johnson never included him in the meetings on economic policy . . . President Johnson complained wearily to aides the other day that his time is taken up by too many people who ought to be talking to his staff. He has figured out that 117 federal officials now report to him. . . . LBJ has laid down the law that the Vietnam war is costing so much money that foreign aid increases are out of the question. . . . The Viet Cong mission in Cairo has been stepping up its activities among the Palestinian Arabs. Several have been recruited for combat training in North Vietnam.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kindle

James R. Kindles Mark Silver Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kindle, 215 Petroleum St., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Friday night at the home of their son, Bob Kindle and wife, 220 Petroleum.

Helping to celebrate were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kindle and daughter Cheri, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kindle and daughter, Sally, of Morehouse, Mrs. Clara Michael, mother of Mrs. James Kindle and Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Dockins.

The table was covered with a white lace cloth. A white cake decorated in silver was flanked on each side with large white candles in silver holders. A silver bowl held an arrangement of white Fuji mums, snapdragons and pompoms, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Dockins. Cake, coffee, soft drinks and tea were served.

Luci Back in White House

WASHINGTON AP – Luci Johnson Nugent was back in the White House again after a five-month absence and "loving the gaiety and excitement" of a state dinner honoring the visiting president of Turkey.

Her black hair upswept, wearing a flowing A-line apricot chiffon dress from her wedding trousseau, she was a center of attraction.

Guests like actress Beatrice Lillie, ex-Secretary of State Dean Acheson and movie mogul Spyros Skouras couldn't compete with radiant Luci, returned for a visit with her parents.

The President's 19-year-old daughter, expecting her first child "around June 17," sported her first manicure in months and proclaimed: "You don't know how great it is to feel elegant again."

Back from Texas in the spring vacation time, Luci has been "sleeping late and enjoying herself", her fond mother confided.

Luci and her older sister, Lynda Bird, elegant in a gold evening gown, were bubbling over with talk.

Lynda, 23, is still sparking romantic rumors about her dates with movie actor George Hamilton -- the most recent one an appearnce last weekend at what she called the "beautiful wedding" in Chicago of Sharon Percy, daughter of Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and John D. Rockefeller IV.

Lynda admitted she and George were late arriving at the ceremonies as newspapers reported. But she didn't want to explain why because she said it would just keep the story alive.

Luci and husband Patrick J. Nugent have been living in a rented duplex house in Austin, Tex., and Luci confirmed they will eventually have to have a bigger place.

Looking around the White House, Luci said she didn't know how much she missed it until she came back.

But she announced firmly that she plans to have her baby born in Texas, explaining: "That's my home."

While serving in a remote area of Southeast Asia, I wrote my wife of the long evening, the shortage of books and music, and the abundance of winsome lasses. I mused that I might fill the lonely hours learning to play a harmonica, if I had one. By return mail came a harmonica.

When I finally returned home, I was met at the airport by my wife, who said, "All right, first things first. Let's hear you play that harmonica!"

Carrot Custard Is Nutritious

By Mrs. Mattie E. Aslin
Extension Home Economist University Extension Center.

KENNETT -- The deep yellow vegetables and dark-green vegetables are the richest in vitamins and minerals. When these vegetables are mentioned we may too often think of creamed carrots and buttered spinach. Monotony in flavors and form in foods do not challenge the taste buds or the cook.

Have you made "Carrot Custard?" Carrot custard is more nutritious than carrot cake because it is lower in calories and higher in mineral content.

Carrot custard is easily prepared; this is especially suitable as a desert when an oven meal is planned. Slightly beat 3 eggs, add 1 ½ cups grated raw carrot and mix 2¼ cups water with 1 cup non fat dry milk or use 3 cups fluid milk and 1 teaspoon salt plus a few grains pepper; mixing these ingredients well. Pour into buttered baking dish and set in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until set; about 45 minutes.

Yellow vegetables are high in vitamin A which is needed for healthy skin, better eye sight and protection against diseases. Yellow vegetables give us energy also. The sweet potato is one vitamin filled food which you can combine with apples. Pare boil the sweet potatoes, peel and slice 1 cup boiled sweet potato cut in ¼ inch slices. Cover with ¾ cup thinly sliced apples. Spinkle with about ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Put in 1 more cup potatoes, then ¾ cup apples, then salt, sugar, and table salt. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour.

Winter squash baked with butter or margarine, sugar, and spice add a special texture to a meal. Pumpkin may be cooked any way which squash is prepared. . .

Winter squash is a family of different squashes. Some large, some small, some yellow, some green or other colors. Under proper conditions they keep well as they have hard dry skins. They have yellow flesh that is high in food value. You may wish to plant some of these varieties which are Hubbard, Acron, Butternut, Turban, Cushaw.

The Extension bulletin "Your Yellow Vegetables" discusses other qualities of this class of food. "Your Greens" is another bulletin which you might like to help you get variety in preparing vegetables.

In a Dublin bookstore: "There are over 8000 books banned in Eire. If by chance we have one on display, please inform us and it will be destroyed."

Kegler's Korner

Hello! We are going to have a ladies doubles round robin tournament Sunday, April 16 at 1 p.m. at Imperial Lanes. There will be a $502 prize fund based on 32 teams entered so hurry up and get your entry in today. If you have any questions about this tourney, please call Glenda Becker or me and we'll try to answer them.

The Tuesday Morning Housewives League finished its league season and last week we had our luncheon. We did jackpot bowl before the luncheon and winners of the games were: First game Hildred Poole (guess who?(224 plus handicap of 35 total 259, second game Fran Heckemeyer 159 plus handicap of 61 total 220, third game Marge Lemmons 182 plus 62 total 244. Series was won by lucky me with a 547 plus 105 total 652.

The Newcomers League did not bowl last week.

I should have told Vera Gaston to do something good the first of the season so I could write about her because ever since I told her that she has really poured it on. All kidding aside Vera, you know how I feel about you. If I can I really pour it on too. Vera took both high game and series this week with a 200-514. Don't stop now gal do it again.

Splits picked up this week: 3-10 Flora Crouthers, Mary Meyer, Sherry Oliver, 5-8-10 Anita Ziegler and Betty Jones, Betty Kelley 7-8, Ruth Ann Templeton 3- 6- 8- 10, Nelda Hodge 5-10, Linda Hill 5-7-8, and Mildred Cockrell and Elsie Butler 3-7-10.

I have had several people ask me about my father lately and I haven't written about him because he is just fine. He is still bowling on the early league on Tuesday night and enjoying every minute of it. He and Mother went fishing over the weekend to Kentucky Lake and caught scads of fish. Fishing is another thing I don't care for but for those like Glenda Becker and Mother and Daddy who are wild about it they can do my share.

See you all next week!

Registrations Being Accepted

Registrations are now being accepted for the next class in the Looking Glass charm course at the Accent Shop.

During the past year four classes, 56 area girls, have completed the course.

The course is not designed to teach girls to be professional models. Girls who take the course are girls who want to be more feminine, more poised, and more knowledgeable in the highly competitive world of today. Some of the girls may discover that they wish to go to further study in the field. In many of these classes girls become interested in a career in fashion and may become models, fashion coordinators, fashion writers, department store buyers. Whatever their reason for taking the course, they are a part of a group of thousands of girls all over the United States who are taking similar courses.

The basic course is divided into six lessons. The girls study skin care and basic make-up in the first lesson. A make-up demonstration is given and each girl receives personal consultation about her own makeup needs. In the second lesson students work on figure control through posture and exercise. Visual poise is stressed which includes sitting, walking, climbing stairs, and getting in and out of cars. Other areas covered are wardrobe, hair care and styling techniques, voice, conversation and social etiquette.

Supplementary material is given on how to decorate their room and on how to entertain.

Mrs. Davis Gives Program

The Meadow Lane Garden club met Monday afternoon in the Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian church. Mrs. M. H. Davis, president, conducted the business meeting. Roll call was answered by each member naming the kind of seeds they had planted.

A note of thanks was read from the Shuffit nursing home thanking the club for the Easter baskets the club members prepared and delivered to the homes. Also read was a letter from Mrs. Nellie Bird of Paris, Tenn., a former member of the club, in which she invited the club members to attend the flower show May 3, given by the garden club there.

Plans were made for the club members to make flower arrangements for the banquet to be held at the American Legion hall this weekend for the Methodist conference.

Mrs. Davis was named as a delegate to attend the state garden club convention to be held in Jefferson City on May 10, 11 and 12. Mrs. E. F. Weidemann was named as alternate.

The club voted to place a book in the Public Library in memory of A. L. Waller and Mrs. Weidemann was appointed to select the book.

Mrs. Davis was in charge of the program, "Flower Arranging" and she gave a demonstration on the proper way to arrange flowers in different types of containers.

Construction Will Start On Cape Dorms

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Work on two additional 12-story dormitories at State College is not expected to start for at least two more weeks, the McCarthy Brothers Co., of Ladue, one of the contractors, reported.

McCarthy and the J.E. Hathman Construction Co., of Jefferson City submitted the low base bid of $3,511,500 for the project in December.

The figure was $125,500 above the college budget of $3,386,000 for the buildings. With architect fees and other costs, $459,000 in additional funds was needed.

In late January, the Housing and Home Finance Agency approved an increase in the loan from federal funds.

Friday, the State College Board of Regents passed an amended loan resolution accepting the additional funds.

McCarthy-Hathman were contractors for the original two high-rise dormitories built at the college.

Dogs Seek Third Straight

Jackson high school will furnish the opposition as the Sikeston Bulldogs baseball team invades Legion Park for its third game of the young season tomorrow afternoon. Game time is 4 p.m.

The Dogs now hold a 2-0 record. The Indians are shooting for their first win after suffering a loss to St. Genevieve last Thursday 11-6.

Sikeston has defeated Chaffee and Oran, two of the better clubs in the area.

Coach Lou Weiss of the Indians says that he expects his team to be shallow this season. He has six sophomores starting and only one returning starter, junior Bill Lewis, who is a one year letterman, plays in the outfield and pitches.

For the Bulldogs, Coach Hal Lane sees steady improvement for the Dogs and thinks the boys are doing real well for the season to be so young.

No changes are expected to be made in the Sikeston lineup except they will be playing for the next two or three weeks without the services of Bruce Farris, due to injuries of his right hand. Farris, only a sophomore was one of the Dogs hopefuls for a starting position. Coach Lane's squad could use his batting power and his fielding and pitching.

Right hander, Rudy Manley, is scheduled to take the mound for the Dogs. Francis Monroe or Joe Lowes will throw for Jackson.

Arizona opened in Big Eight last year... Veteran quarterback Gary Kombrink and sophomore Garnett Phelps likely to handle top teams this spring ... Missing from drills will be three lettermen -- QB Dan Sharp and SE Jim Juras (baseball), and FB Barry Lischner (recuperating from knee surgery and will work on his own).

In Saturday's April Fool edition of the Southeast Missouri State College newspaper "The Capaha Error" a few sports notes were noticed.

REMEMBER . . ..These are only April fools' stories!

The one that attracted most attention was "UCLA Court Star Transfers to Cape."

It read. . . "Lou Alcindor, 7 foot, one and three eights inch center from UCLA today announced that he was transferring at the end of this semester to Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau.

Alcindor, who led his team to a 30-0 season and the NCAA championship said that he did not like the people at UCLA."

We wonder if that was just a joke or was it one of Coach Parsley's wishes. . . we wonder!

The other attraction on the front page was. . . head "Cape State Indians to take over for Illinois in big ten reshuffle soon".

Excerpts from the article follow: Illinois' decision to drop out of the Big Ten conference rather than fire the three coaches for operating a slush fund has given Big Ten officials a chance to do what they say has been uppermost in their minds for several years.

The Big Ten will invite Southeast Missouri State College of Cape Girardeau to participate in the Big Ten in all the sports which are part of the conference.

Big Ten executive coordinator Grace Binton said last week: "We have been considering Southeast Missouri in our possible extension plans for the Big Ten, and, while we are unhappy to lose Illinois, the addition of Southeast will be a great asset to the conference."

We wonder who believed those stores. . .They sound so real... one could believe or hope for the best.

By the way. . . the real name of the paper is the Capaha Arrow not the error. . . someone must have made an error in thinking those things up. . .

Coach Everett Shelton's tall boys from the West didn't quite prove his point Saturday that those who pick the All-Americas pay more attention to shooting ability than to defensive strength.

The East squad, led by Sonny Dove of St. John's, took a 102-93 victory over the Sacramento State coach's taller Western stars, hitting 40 of 90 shots for 44.4 per cent, while the West hit 35 of 90 shots for 38.9 per cent.

The West, which averaged 1-1/2 inches taller than the East, collected only one more rebound. The East included second-team All-Americas Bob Verga of Duke, Ron Widby of Tennessee, Bob Lloyd of Rutgers and Louie Dampier of Kentucky.

Dove, who was named Star of Stars in the game, hit 13 of 21 field goal attempts for a total 26 points and grabbed 15 rebounds.

Yanks Caribbean Trip Unsuccessful

By RON RAPOPORT

The New York Yankees' recent Caribbean hop does not appear destined to go down as one of the more successful island excursions of all time.

For one thing, the Yanks won only one of the three games they played in the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico over the weekend. For another, the medical after-effects of the trip were staggering.

Back at their spring training base in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Monday, the Yankees discovered that outfielder Lou Clinton and infielder Charley Smith were lost for up to three weeks because of injuries suffered in the islands.

X rays showed that Clinton, hit by a pitch, had fractured a thumb and Smith had suffered a shoulder separation when he dove after a line drive.

The Yankees picked up John Kennedy in a trade with Los Angeles and named him their starting shortstop. Pitcher Jack Cullen, outfielder - first baseman John Miller and about $25,000 went to the Dodgers, who also got infielder - outfielder Roy White on a one - year loan for their Spokane farm club.

The Yankees lost to Washington 7-2 Monday night as Jim Bouton was cuffed for six hits, five walks and commited a wild pitch. Dick Howser also made two errors, leading to more Washington runs.

Willie Stargell's pinch hit two - run homer with two out in the ninth, send the Pirates to a 4-2 triumph over Kansas City. Bob Veale turned in a strong pitching job, giving up just one run in eight innings.

Juan Marichal gave up just two hits in six innings and Bill Sorrell singled in the winning run in the 11th inning for a 5-4 San Francisco victory over Cleveland. Five straight walks in the ninth by Steve Bailey allowed the Giants to tie the score.

Jack Hamilton and Bill Denehy combined to limit the Chicago White Sox to two hits and the New York Mets won 4-1. The Mets scored three times in the first inning, which was highlighted by doubles by Cleon Jones and Johnny Lewis.

Rico Carty drove in two runs with a double in the sixth inning, lifting Atlanta to a 2-1 decision over Philadelphia. Deron Johnson drove in four runs with two singles and a double, powering Cincinnati to a 6-4 triumph over Detroit.

Orlando Cepeda drove in a run and scored two others and Mike Shannon had three hits as St. Louis pounded Minnesota 6-1. Harmon Killebrew hit his seventh home run of the spring for the Twins. Ted Savage connected for the Cardinals.

An error by shortstop Lee Bales in the fifth inning allowed the tie-breaking run to cross the plate and Los Angeles beat Houston 4-2.

Court Injunction May Be Sought By Detroit Promoters

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit boxing promoter threatened to seek a court injunction today to prevent heavyweight champion Cassius Clay from defending his title against Floyd Patterson in Las Vegas, Nev.

Mrs. Jean Wilson, head of E and J Sports Club, said the club's attorney, Eddie D. Smith, would ask federal court today to stop the fight from being held anywhere but in Detroit.

Clay, 25, and Patterson 32, the former heavyweight champion, had been negotiating with E and J to stage the fight in Detroit.

But an authoritative source told The Associated Press Monday night that negotiations fell through and Clay's managers decided to take the bout to Las Vegas.

"We feel that there is some sort of conspiracy," said Mrs. Wilson. "We feel that Mr. Muhammad Ali's camp interfered with our completing a contract with Mr. Patterson."

Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, his Muslim name, stopped Patterson in 12 rounds at Las Vegas, Nov. 22, 1965. Clay's last title defense was March 22 when he knocked out Zora Folley in the seventh round at Madison Square Garden in New York.

It would be Clay's 10th title defense and his eighth in the last 13 months.

Hawks Are Confident; Must Win At Home

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The player-coach of the St. Louis Hawks is looking for a tighter defense and a lift from a partisan crowd as he brings his team home for the third contest in the Western Division playoffs against San Francisco.

The Warriors jumped to a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven National Basketball Association series, defeating the Hawks by narrow margins on the West Coast.

In the second game in San Francisco the Warriors beat the Hawks 143-136 to establish a scoring record for a playoff game.

"We're confident we can win the whole thing if we pick up on our defense," Hawks Coach Rickie Guerin said. "These games Wednesday and Saturday are must games for us."

Guerin said the team has had plenty of rest and should be sharp for the game Wednesday.

"The building, the fans," Guerin commented, "they're all an influence on the game. Ninety per cent of the fans will be cheering for us and these professionals respond to that stuff, believe it or not."

One of the big targets for the Hawks' tighter defense will be San Francisco's Rick Barry who is winging with a 42.5 points per game average after the first two games. From the free throw line he has connected on all 15 shots. Barry scored 47 points against the Hawks in the second game.

If St. Louis places too much emphasis on stopping Barry, trouble may come from another source. Nate Thurmond has connected on 72.7 per cent of his shots from the field in posting his two-game average of 18.7 points.

Four other San Francisco players also are hitting on better than 50 per cent of their shots from the field, leaving little latitude for double teaming by St. Louis.

The Hawks' coach said St. Louis will have to move back quickly Wednesday to prevent the easy fast break shots, which accounted for the high accuracy of the Warriors in the earlier contests.

31 Lettermen Returning For Grid Season

JONESBORO, Ark. -- Arkansas State University will have what is perhaps the finest football team in the school's history, but at the same time the 1967 grid schedule is by far the school's roughest ever.

The Indians will have 31 lettermen returning from last year's 7-2 team which finished sixth among college division teams in one wire service poll.

Head Coach Bennie Ellender returns to lead the Tribe's grid fortunes for the fifth season. He was District Seven College Division coach of the year in 1966.

The Indians will push Southland Conference co-champions Lamar Tech and Arlington State in hopes of gaining their first football crown since the league was formed. But Lamar and Arlington also return several key players, as do Abilene Christian and Trinity U., the other two members of the SLC.

The Tribe's offensive line will be anchored by 6-5, 240-pound center Ron Worthen, an All-SlC performer. Gerald Jumper (190), an All-SLC end, will easily break all receiving records. Throwing the aerials to Jumper will be Tim Keane (190), who along with fullback Steve Gankiewicz give the Tribe two All-SLC picks in the backfield. Gankiewicz, who weighs only 185 pounds, set a conference scoring record last season with 13 touchdowns.

Defensively, the Indians are led by three All-SLC players. They are safety Dick Ritchey (190), a two-time selection, linebacker Bill Bergey (228) and end Steve Puryear (200).

Other holdover lettermen include halfback Benny Winford (185), defensive ends Pete Garris (185) and Rick McBride (200), tackles Dwain Glenn (218) and David Young (214), guard Manuel Montes (215), monster man Gwin Wood (182) and defensive back Gary Hankins (185).

The Indians' top sophomore may turn out to be big Mike Hinrichs, a 6-6, 245-pound tackle. Hinrichs was pressed into starting duty last season in his first year as a college player.

Other top returning sophomores include defensive linemen Dan Buckley (215), Charles Hinrichs (215) and Eugene Thompson (219), defensive back Orley Massena (170), linebackers David Wallas (185) and W. A. Young (200), end Virgil Peyton (218) and offensive tackle Jackie Smith (217). All were starters or part - time starters last season as redshirt freshmen.

Also returning as sophomore lettermen are end Dennis Zolper (190), guard Mike Christal (225), halfbacks Larry Maxwell (180) and Denny Burns (195), kicking specialists Mike Everett (193) and Gary Elliott (175) and punter Kevin McClelland (175).

The schedule is:

Sept. 23 - Western Michigan
Sept. 30 - at Tennessee Tech
Oct. 7 - The Citadel at Little Rock
Oct. 14 - at Louisiana Tech
Oct. 21 - Abilene Christian (Homecoming)
Oct. 28 - at Lamar Tech
Nov. 4 - U. of SW Louisiana

Wills' Shoes Ruled Illegal

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Maury Wills, an acknowledged base thief, has been notified his new-style baseball shoes are illegal.

Warren Giles, National League president, ordered Wills, who has stolen nine bases in nine tries this spring, to change his shoes by opening day.

Giles' order, revealed Monday, did not cite any reasons.

Wills changed this spring to shoes that resemble track shoes. The traditional baseball shoe's spikes are triangular, but on Wills' new shoes the spikes are straight and blunt.

"I don't see anything wrong with the shoes," said Wills. "If a ball club wets down an infield to hamper the faster men in the league, nobody says that's illegal. I'm just trying to help myself."

Wills, Pittsburgh Pirate third baseman, stole a record 104 bases in 1962 while playing with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

He said Ron Fairly of Los Angeles wears the same type.

Wills disagreed with some people who said the spikes on the new-style shoes are dangerous.

"The end of the spike is blunt," he said. "The other type spike has sharper ends. Besides nobody in baseball purposely tries to spike another fellow."

General Manager Joe L. Brown of Pittsburgh said he told Wills not to let Giles' order bother him.

"I reminded Maury that he didn't need any special shoes... in 1962," said Brown. "I don't blame a man for trying something new, but when a rule is made we just have to abide by it."

Wills said he'll change to the conventional baseball shoes in the next few days. He has to make the switch by April 11.

Announcing Buick's new GS-340.
(The minipriced GS-400.)

If you read the papers, you know how great our now-famous GS-400 is. (It's the one in the background.)

And you also know you don't get a GS-400 for peanuts. It's a great car. But it's just a little rich for some people.

So we set to work and designed the GS-340. It has a smaller engine (but the whole machine weighs less). Its interior is clean and simple and tasteful. And it has its own ornamentation, paint job (see the rally stripe and hood scoops?), and, of course, all the GM safety features.

So now you have a car that costs less than the GS-400, but one with its own special brand of excitement.

How can you beat that kind of a combination?

West-East German Hostility Thawing

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German government has begun a new policy of not being beastly to the Communist rulers of 17 million Germans east of the Elbe River.

It remains to be seen whether the policy will pay off.

The new Bonn government has no more affection than its predecessors had for Communist leader Walter Ulbricht. His Lenin-like beard, his Stalin-like policy and his responsibility for the Berlin wall have long made him the man West German politicians love to hate.

"It's not a question of being nice to people who aren't so nice themselves," explained Willy Brandt, the foreign minister. But Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's men believe that the way to reunify Germany is to be friendlier with the Communist powers that have so far prevented it. There has been a lot of political double talk in recent speeches, however.

One West German editorialist spoke of "beating around the bush." Editors of the news weekly Der Spiegel accused Kiesinger in an interview of giving a "sphinx-like" answer on the issue. "You have to keep a lot of options open in politics," Kiesinger replied.

One editor suggested that a majority of legislators secretly favor official recognition of Ulbricht's government and of its border with Poland. These are major Communist demands on West Germany, and many West Germans would consider it treasonable to yield.

Kiesinger denied any such majority exists.

Kiesinger offers some concessions to Ulbricht's government. One that does not sound like much, but which carries a heavy emotional charge in Germany, is the fact that he sometimes refers to it as the DDR. These are the initials for German (Deutsche) Democratic Republic, its official title.

A few months ago anyone who used those initials without quotation marks ran the risk of being called a Communist or fellow traveler.

The official initials recognized in Bonn are SBZ for Soviet Occupied Zone. The expression raises the hackles of East Germans, Communist or not.

Both Kiesinger and Brandt have backed away from the claim of previous Bonn governments to "the exclusive right of representation" for all Germans in world affairs. Brandt said at one news conference that this was not a right but a simple duty to speak up for those who had no freely elected government to speak for them.

Ulbricht has been traveling around Eastern Europe, trying to dissuade other Communist governments from following Romania in setting up diplomatic relations with Bonn. His government has created a new East German citizenship, offensive to West Germans who believe that all Germans should have the same citizenship.

To Smoke Or Not To Smoke

(fourth of four articles)

"Are You Smoking More and Enjoying it Less? Then Stop! "Brighten Up Your Taste. Quit Smoking."

"For That Springtime Taste.. Stop Smoking."

The schoolchildren who penned these parodies as part of a classroom project have the right idea, the Missouri Heart Association agrees, in hope that this sentiment will snowball into teenage trend with more staying power than hula hoops and Beatle haircuts.

It takes a lot more than a passing fad to undo the damage that the smoking habit can do to a whole generation of youngsters now growing up. According to the American Public Health Association, approximately one million school-age children now alive are doomed to die of lung cancer if current teenage smoking patterns are not reversed. Deaths from premature heart attacks aggravated by smoking would more than double the toll.

All studies of the harmful consequences of smoking point to the teens as the critical years. Adults who started smoking at the earliest ages have the highest death rates, as well as the highest incidence of circulatory and respiratory diseases associated with cigarette smoking.

It is not surprising, then, that smoking among teenagers today is a cause for concern to physicians and teachers, as it should be to parents. One authoritative estimate places one high school student in three as a regular cigarette smoker. Children also appear to be taking up smoking at a much younger age than they used to, many starting as early as the 5th or 6th grade.

A recent study in Newton, Massachusetts, showed that smoking mothers of high school students started the habit at an average age of 22; their daughters started at 12 1/2. Smoking fathers had started at 18; their sons at 11 1/2.

Teenage smokers have one advantage over their elders, doctors agree. It is easier for them to quit now, before their habit becomes too stubbornly fixed, than it is for veteran smokers to break the pattern of an adult lifetime.

Yet it is the veterans - the parents - who must help turn the tables in the interests of their children's health. For the surveys reveal another significant relationship in the teenage smoking picture; young people whose parents smoke are more apt to smoke than youngsters from non-smoking families.

Thus, for their children's sake, as well as their own, adults should make the effort to stop smoking cigarettes. The rewards, the Missouri Heart Association declares, will be quickly apparent to fathers and sons, mothers and daughters.

The Rev. Bill Chapman of Kennett, an Episcopal minister active in numerous poverty programs, has spearheaded the effort to get the project underway. Last year he worked with an experimental crop of green vegetables on a much smaller scale in the area of Gobler.

A processing firm in Tennessee has already signed a contract with the co-operative to pay five cents per pound for the okra crop. John M. Craddock of the Winter Garden Freezer Company said Tuesday that the 200 acres should gross at least $100,000 off the okra crop.

Craddock said his firm chose okra because it is the least vulnerable vegetable crop in regards to extreme weather conditions, is bothered less by insects, and quality is not too much of a problem.

The processors will set up a receiving station on the 200 acres leased by the co-operative. Craddock's firm has opened the offer for okra contracts to other small farmers in the area who have found other Bootheel crops not too profitable. He says most farmers will gross more than $500 per acre off the okra.

Neither Chapman nor Craddock considers this an effort to replace the two major crops, cotton and soybeans, for large farmers - at least not at the present. State and federal agencies are studying such a potential.

However, the current project is aimed at offering some security to the small farmer- a disappearing breed in cotton country.

Small Farm Idea Revived In Bootheel

CARUTHERSVILLE - In an effort to revive the small farm idea in Pemiscot county and introduce vegetable crops into this area, plans are being made for at least 200 acres of okra to be grown near here under the auspices of a local co-operative.

There are two unique aspects to this project - it is the first major effort in truck farming for Pemiscot County, and at the same time is a small scale "war on poverty" without government funds.

The co-operative is to be made up of about 50 impoverished families. They will each be responsible for a small plot, probably in the neighborhood of four acres, on which the okra will be grown.

The 200 acres has been leased from Alonzo P. Kersey Jr., presiding judge of the county court. A total of $20,000 to lease the land, buy the seed, and cover other expenses has been loaned to the co-operative by an unnamed Missouri industry. It will be repaid when the crop is harvested.

MISSOURI MAY FACE TAXRAISE IN 1969

JEFFERSON CITY - Missouri may face a tax raise as early as 1969, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said in an interview last week - but added that the state may receive financial relief in the form of "bloc grants" from the federal government within the near future.

Hearnes said that the need for additional state income could be critical in the 1969-71 period - which would be the beginning of the next governor's term.

Missouri presently seems to be proud of its low taxes - the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development ran an ad a month ago in a national magazine with the headline - "We're Proud to Be Last," indicating Missouri's position in tax rates charged its citizens, and designed to lure industry to Missouri.

The governor said he felt it was remarkable what the state has been able to do with the relatively low amount of income available - terming his own administration a "catch-up administration" which has had to come from behind in mental health, education and other services to achieve at least equal status with other states. In addition, he cited Missouri as a leader in mental health during the past three years.

But the governor has not been hesitant to point out that the state could use more money.

Raising taxes can be political suicide. Former Gov. John M. Dalton alone bore the criticism for raising the state sales tax from two to three cents - a far-sighted move which has kept state services from plumeting altogether.

But Gov. Hearnes feels that the success of a proposed tax raise depends on the man - he must go to the people and sell them on the need for more taxes - he said.

To help lift the political and financial burden from the states who need more money - namely Missouri - Gov. Hearnes has urged for several months the adoption of the so-called "Heller Plan" of rebating taxes by the federal government.

Under this plan, Congress would allocate percentages of federal tax money back to state governments with "no strings attached." That is, states would not have to spend the money on specific programs, as the "grant-in-aid" programs, now used by the federal government, require.

Hearnes said that most of the governors at the recent Governors' Conference in Washington, D.C., indicated that this plan could not be implemented until the Viet Nam conflict is ended, but that President Johnson indicated "bloc grants" of money to the states might be available immediately, within the present session of Congress.

Such grants would involve giving money to states under the heading of education or public health, for example, with no "strings" attached as to how to use the money within these areas.

Hearnes' major criticism of federal aid has been of the grant-in-aid programs which he says force the states to adopt federal programs or lose programs they are already giving to their citizens.

SENATORS 'PRESSURED' ON TRUTH IN LENDING

A large lobbying campaign is being waged against a Senate bill which would require all money lenders in the state to proclaim the actual interest being charged on a loan to bold letters on the front of the loan.

Sen. Earl Blackwell (D-Hillsboro) introduced the bill in the Senate and has managed to get it approved by a Senate committee and ready for floor debate, but said that a tremendous amount of work is being done to kill the measure.

Institutions ranging from banks and loan associations to retailers are urging Senators to kill the bill, Blackwell said.

The retailers would be affected by a stipulation requiring interest charged on revolving charge accounts be stated to the customer, as it would if he were applying for a loan.

Blackwell said the loan and banking institutions are claiming the bill would make if difficult and almost impossible to calculate actual interest - but he dismisses this as so much "bunk," since tables could be prepared as soon as such a bill is passed.

The interest rate which a borrower generally sees on a loan form and advertised in the newspapers is the basic interest figure - for example - 8 per cent, which is actually compounded semi-annually and amounts to often more than 16 per cent actual interest paid.

The bill would require that the full interest rate be explained to the customer in writing on the loan form.

Loan associations avoid competition, Blackwell said, on small loans by using monthly interest rates, such as 2.218 per cent per month. Thus, when another loan company advertises loans for only 2.0 per cent interest, the borrower cannot see a great difference. However, if the full annual rate were shown, he could see the difference between 14 per cent and 18 per cent. Blackwell said that by showing the full rate, competition will increase where it has been suppressed in the past by hiding the rates in small monthly figures - and with the competition will come eventually lower rates to the consumer.

"Luck" is a very good word, if you put a P before it.

The test of every religious, political, or educational system is the man it forms.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will let me use your column to spread a message that is vital to the health and lives of American children.

Measles is a dangerous disease. It can cause mental retardation, blindness, deafness and death. In this day and age no child needs to have measles. In 1963 a sure-fire vaccine was discovered and one innoculation - yes, I said ONE innoculation - can protect a child throughout his entire life.

The Public Health Service has provided enough vaccine to wipe out the disease in a single year. Children can get free shots at most county and city health departments if they do not have access to regular care from a family physician. Every child who has reached his first birthday is old enough to obtain this lifetime protection.

Please, Ann Landers, print this plea and urge parents to heed it. - Glen W. Snyder, Asst. Director, Oregon Immunization Program

Dear Glen Snyder: Thank you for your letter. And now I would like to put a question to American parents:

What do you have planned within the next 24 hours that is more important than protecting your child against potential blindness, deafness, mental retardation or death? Call your doctor or the Health Department and make an appointment.

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago I became pregnant. Jason and I are both 17. In our state parents must sign for both parties if they are under 18 years of age.

I was willing to ask my parents but Jason refused to ask his. He said he just couldn't face the shame. I nearly went out of my mind with worry. I even considered killing myself. Finally I told Jason that if he wouldn't ask his parents to sign, I would go to them. We got into a terrible argument and I ended up nauseated and with a splitting headache. That night I had a miscarriage. It was early enough so that I didn't have to go to a doctor so my folks never did find out that I was pregnant.

Now I feel that Jason should marry me just in case something happens in the future. When two people are in love it is impossible to stay away from each other and I know very well that as soon as Jason gets over the scare we will start in where we left off. He is like very cool to the idea of marriage and I need to know what to do to hold him. - CONSTANTINE

Dear Con: If you considering "starting in where you left off," I can tell you that history will probably repeat itself - unless Jason gets smart and find himself another girl, which I hope he does for your sake as well as his.

Confidential to Trusting Fool: From the evidence you have presented in your letter, I would say he has done an amazing job of bamboozling everybody. I wouldn't be surprised if the wool he has been pulling over your eyes is 50% cotton. Give him a nice, warm farewell handshake - then count your fingers.

What is love? How does it differ from sexual attraction? Read "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Send 35¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Effects of Strike Show Up on Screen

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK AP -- The strike of the television performers' union against the three major networks continued to plague the daytime and news shows, but did not affect the filmed series from the Hollywood studios.

Ed Sullivan's hour Sunday night was a rerun of recent vintage. But NBC's Frank McGee report was apparently forced by a shortage of suitable domestic picture stories to make his major subject a grisly feature showing Italian hunters shooting song birds - larks and gold finches -- in the name of sport.

ABC, shooting a basketball game in Boston, found itself with only one camera but struggled on in black and white. It seemed to this viewer that NBC's "College Bowl" was suffering, too, from some erratic camera work.

Hard-luck program of the entire weekend was NBC's special edition of "Meet the Press" Originally it had been scheduled for Sunday night to demonstrate how an interview could be conducted in color by satellite. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was to be in Washington, interviewed by five foreign newsmen in London. Then Mr. Humphrey was sent on his European tour and Secretary of State Dean Rusk was substituted. Came the AFTRA strike and Mr. Rusk cautiously pulled out and former Undersecretary of State George W. Ball — in Paris — was interviewed by the five newsmen in London.

NBC's "Experiment in Television" pretaped for broadcast Sunday afternoon was a most interesting demonstration of acting by a group of performers who communicated by sign language. The actors in this "Theatre of the Deaf," were most effective in scenes from "Hamlet," but also showed their versatility in a song and dance number from "Guys and Dolls."

The strike continues to upset the daytime schedules. Two new game shows are postponed — ABC's "One in a Million" and NBC's "Snap Judgment," both scheduled to start today.

ABC will return "Father Knows Best" to its schedule in place of "General Hospital."

ABC's fall schedule, announced over the weekend, confirmed previous reports that "Batman" will be reduced to a single 30-minute show next season and that lawyer F. Lee Bailey will be host on a weekly interview show, now called "Inside Out" but along "Person-to-Person" lines. The network also announced that Carol Channing and Debbie Reynolds have been signed for some specials next season.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE
By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE DETERMINED BOYFRIEND

Vera spent her vacation at a hotel where she alternated between slapping mosquitoes and Herman for getting fresh. A persistent fellow, Herman wanted to become Vera's boyfriend in the worst way but acted in the worst way and made little progress. Consequently, when Vera's vacation finally came to an end, Herman became desperate. After Vera had placed her baggage on the train for the trip home, Herman removed them to his car and insisted that he be allowed to drive her to where she lived.

Unable to convince Herman to put the bags back on the train, Vera reluctantly climbed into Herman's car and permitted him to drive her home. Immediately upon arriving, however, she sued him for false imprisonment.

"There were no bars on my car," was Herman's defense. "Vera could have gotten out of my car any time she so desired."

"That's not true," was Vera's answer. "He had my bags and wouldn't give them back. I had to go where they went. We were inseparable."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you find that Herman captured Vera when he captured her bags?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that it is false imprisonment to illegally prevent a person from going where they choose in the manner desired. In this case, concluded the judge, Herman indirectly prevented Vera from going home on the train by taking her personal belongings.

Council on Arts Growth Cited

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Council on the Arts reports more than 180 communities throughout the state are participating in its program.

Clark Mitze, director of the council made the report to the Senate appropriations committee Monday.

He said when the council was set up 18 months ago only four communities in the state had arts programs. The growth has been far beyond expectations.

The council contracts for symphonies, theater groups and art exhibits for individual communities and arranges programs for schools. He said educational programs have been shown to more than 100,000 students during the past year.

Mitze requested the cut that the House Appropriations Committee made of $50,000 be restored. The council's total request is for $300,000.

The committee also heard requests from the Inter-Agency Council on Outdoor Recreation, the State Supreme Court and the St. Louis and Kansas City courts of appeal.

How five little digits are bringing you closer to everyone you know

How long does it take a letter to travel from a man in Portland, Maine, to his grandmother in the Houston Medical Center? From a woman in Oklahoma City to her soldier son in Fort Bragg, North Carolina? From a girl at the University of Michigan to her parents in Smithtown, New York?

Maybe overnight. Maybe longer.

Because every letter must go through many post offices before it reaches its destination. And since the volume of mail keeps growing at every post office, each letter may wait a little longer to be sorted.

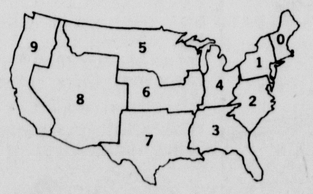

But now there's a new way to get the mail through faster—and bring you closer to everyone you know.

It starts with those five little digits you know as Zip Code. With Zip, postal workers can sort mail faster and route it more directly. With Zip, they will use modern electronic machines that "read" Zip numbers and sort mail fifteen times faster than ever before!

Many people use Zip Codes. But those who don't are holding up the mail for themselves and everyone else.

Add Zip Code to every mailing address—and to your return address, too. Then others can easily Zip their mail to you. When you don't know a Zip Code, call your post office or look it up in their Zip Directory.

Remember those five little digits. They're doing a big job.

HOW ZIP CODE WORKS

Suppose the Zip Code is 60635. The "6" says it goes to the Midwest. The "06" narrows it down to Chicago. The last two digits—"35"—pinpoint the local post office. This eliminates many handling procedures. The letter is sorted faster, and sent more directly to its destination.

Mail moves the country—ZIP CODE moves the mail!

The railroad company offered to pay the cost of installation of red octagon shaped stop signs on both sides of crossings on William, Ruth and North streets and Salcedo Road. The city would be required to police the stop signs, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said.

The railroad recommended the installations as an added safety precaution. The Frisco will be notified of the committee's recommendation, Miller said.

In other action, the council accepted the resignation of George T. Johnson from the board of adjustments. Mayor Kendall Sikes asked the council to think about a replacement. The board of adjustments handles requests for variations from requirements of zoning ordinances.

A copy of a proposed ordinance, which would require a license for vending machines, was presented for review. The purpose of the ordinance is to control the distribution and operation of vending machines, Miller said.

The ordinance would require each machine to be licensed by the city.

Sikeston has three coin vending machine distributors. Each is charged a $100 merchants license fee annually.

Out-of-town distributors are not charged under the present arrangements. This is unfair to the Sikeston dealers, Miller said.

The proposed ordinance would allow the city to know where the machines are and who is responsible for them. If the city received complaints about the operations of a machine, it could, under the proposed ordinance, revoke the license on a machine and have it put out of service.

The council approved the following appointments: Harold Pitman, airport advisory Board, April 10, 1970; Bruce Lewis, board of adjustments, May 1, 1970; William Bess, board of public works, April 5, 1971; the Rev. Harold Belsheim, Mrs. Gene Nunnelee and Paul Bumbarger, library board, April 17, 1970.

Mrs. Ruth Sharp, Hank Switala and Clovis Lancaster, park board, April 10, 1970.

Ira Keller, planning commission, May 1, 1970; Lawrence Cleek, traffic committee, April 10, 1970; Lee Austin Bowman, zoning commission, May 1, 1970.

A replacement is needed for Harold Vogel on the park board.

Robert Miller was reappointed to the United Nations Association. He serves as a liaison to inform the community of UN activities.

replied to the city's proposal on March 13, with an offer to pay the city of Sikeston a flat rate of $300 per year. Property owners covered by insurance could pay Sikeston $100 per call, under the proposal.

The counter proposal was refused by the city council.

The Sikeston fire department now will not answer fire calls outside the city limits, except in cases of major need, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said.

The $150 charge will be assessed for any run outside the city limits, he noted.

The decision whether the fire call is an emergency is to be made by Fire Chief L. D. Ramsey, Miller said.

If a fire was threatening several houses or human life, the city would be obliged to answer in Miner or outside the city limits, Miller said.

Sikeston has reciprocal agreements to answer fire calls in Morehouse and Matthews in cases of emergency, Miller said.

The town of Miner has been contacting fire departments in Memphis and St. Louis attempting to purchase a fire truck, but none has been found, Wheeler said.

Harold Lewis has been appointed fire chief there and has offered to house a fire truck in a building near his house. Miner residents have offered to serve as volunteer firemen, Wheeler said.

"All we need is a fire truck," he said.

The organization of a fire department will be discussed at a council meeting Thursday in Miner, Wheeler said.

The Chamber of Commerce in Sikeston has sought to induce Miner to merge with Sikeston.

Frank Reeves of the Howard University law faculty, contend that Powell met the constitutional requirements of age, citizenship and residency and the House had no power to exclude him.

Powell brought suit March 9 and asked that a special three-judge court be named to hear the constitutional questions involved.

Bromley contended today that no such special court can be named because it was a House resolution rather than a formal act of Congress that barred Powell from his seat.

The decision of a three-judge court can be appealed directly to the U. S. Supreme Court, bypassing the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Powell sought establishment of the three-judge court to speed a final decision.

return benefit each in the community.

The five star program is a long range program and will be the result of everyday community betterment, Halsell noted.

"There are only two communities from a population of 700 or up from Jackson south to the Arkansas line that are not in this program," Halsell said, "and you are in competition with every city of your own size throughout the whole state."

Cash awards are presented to towns with outstanding programs. There is $10,500 given each year as prize money to towns throughout the state.

Prize money is offered in this manner: There are population categories of 0-500; 501-1,000; 1,001-2,500; 2,501-5,000; 5,001- 10,000. In each category there are five winners each year. New Madrid is in the 2,501 - 5,000 category, Halsell pointed out.

First place winner receives $700; second $600; third $500; fourth $300; fifth $100.

"This prize money is not necessarily the most important part of the local MCB program, but is merely offered as an incentive on the part of the 20 sponsors to encourage various communities throughout the state to participate on an annual basis," Halsell said.

Outline and work book materials are furnished by the state MCB program. Two surveys are available, attitude and industrial.

To participate, the community must complete an entry blank designating a chairman and two projects to be submitted for judging during the year.

Three projects are required, one is awareness and the remaining two are the choice of the community.

Awareness is informing the public about the MCB program. A scrapbook is kept to tabulate materials from two projects the community feels were most outstanding. These projects will be judged and compared with every city in their category.

Halsell said he will take 35mm slides of every phase of the town this summer, and will show them to the people for them to see the town as an outsider does.

Halsell said, "To sum it up, you must be an active community."

Henry Maddox, Director of the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, which is charged with conducting the Community Betterment program said, "Our records show that only 22 per cent of the total incorporated communities are eligible for membership, 85 per cent of all new and expanding industries in Missouri last year chose community betterment member towns.

"This would seem to indicate that towns and cities not participating in the program may be missing the chance to join in a successful cooperative venture designed solely to aid individual communities to help themselves," Maddox said.

Temporary chairman Sam L. Hunter Jr. gave a brief talk on the advantages of the community betterment program.

A report from the nominating committee was given by L. H. Recker and the following were elected by a unanimous vote: Overall chairman, Harold Sloas; economic development chairman, Sam L. Hunter, Jr.; agriculture, Bert Robbins; business, Kelty Adams; industrial, Bob Blades; tourism, Dorothy Edwards.

Social development chairman, Martha Anderson; education, Sam Bodine; family living, Sarah Dyke; recreation and culture, Sonny Dawson; senior citizens, the Rev. J. H. Holt; youth, Father Staed; beautification chairman, Harriette Reeder; publicity chairman, Don Roberts.

Government services chairman, Charles Hatley; municipal government, Ben Ashley; health and sanitation, Joe Lewis; street lighting and marking, Jimmy Cravens; fire protection, Gallivan Hunter; police protection, Virgil Dees; transportation, W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey; scrapbook, Faye Hedgepeth.

The meeting was concluded with a cry in unison, "Lets go to work."

an annual return of $5,500 and other farmers a similar investment.

"The fewer farmers today are in the hands of better farmers and their future will rise and fall on the ability and ingenuity of the American farmer.

"They are important to the consumer, provide more than 65 per cent of the employment in allied industries, and they purchased $4 billion in tractors and other machinery, $320,000 in rubber products; 320,000 pounds of wire and many other products.

"Today you can classify farmers as of three types, one who makes things happen; one who watches things happen, and the one who does not watch things happen."

A film was shown on modern day farm investment and management.

have an overall master plan for higher education. He said during the past eight days in hearings for the state colleges and junior colleges he has noted unhealthy competition for funds and students.

McNeal added the Commission on Higher Education should make an in-depth study and develop a master plan for higher education.

Dr. Weaver agreed. He pointed out the university is placing increased emphasis on graduate and professional education.

"Knowledge doubled between 1950 and 1960 and doubled again between 1960 and 1967," he said.

The result is an increase in the courses offered and areas of specialization requiring an increase in faculty. Increasing enrollments also will require an increase n faculty.

Estimated enrollment at the four campuses for next year is 37,650 with 19,850 of these at the Columbia campus.

Monday Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson told the committee he needs eight new assistants to keep up with a rising workload. He has 15 full time assistants now and 40 part time lawyers around the state.

Anderson said the state had 78 cases in the state Supreme Court in the January term this year compared with 18 in the January, 1965 term.

He said recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions have increased the number of criminal cases on appeal and the increase in the size of the state government has resulted in many more requests for opinions.

Earlier the Bi - State Development Agency of St. Louis asked for $325,000 to meet a deficit in operating the bi-state transit system and qualify for matching federal funds.

R. E. Smyser, Jr., executive director of the transit system, said St. Louis is the only major city in the nation which cannot qualify for federal funds.

Smyser said "we have used up all the economies" without further reducing routes or increasing the basic 30 - cent fare.

He said a similar request is pending in the Illinois legislature.

Ex-Wife Sues Comedian For Defaming Character

NEW YORK (AP) - Comedian Woody Allen's former wife, Harleen, charging he held her up to public ridicule in his television routines, has filed a $1 million defamation of character suit against him and the National Broadcasting Co.

A MAN shovels snow for the same reason he climbs a mountain -- because it's there.

My neighbor has several sons who fill her yard with lively play, fist fights, ball games, or just plain screaming. The two older boys one day set up a lemonade stand with a sign that read:

"Help Send These Boys to Camp!"

Business flourished as if all the neighborhood was glad to bring about the boys' vacation. The biggest part of the work of the venture went to the boys' mother as she constantly had to clean spilled sugar and lemon peels from her kitchen. The following morning she amended the boys' sign to read: "Help! Send These Boys to Camp!"

Caruthersville May Lose Legion Fair

CARUTHERSVILLE -- One of southeast Missouri's three major fairs may be a matter of history due to financial problems, among other things.

It was announced this week that the American Legion Fair held here in the fall for the past 33 years is not being scheduled for 1967. The main reason for the decision by the local veterans' organization is that the fair has lost money for several years.

Members of the Legion fair board also feel they are not up to carrying out the work needed to put on the fair and that few younger men have joined the effort recently. Many of the board members have served since the fair was originated.

There is still hope, however, that there will be more fairs in Carthersville. The Chamber of Commerce president, Henry Tipton, appointed a special committee to study the problem and see if an all-county fair might be held.

The American Legion post indicated that it would be glad to co-operate with any community efforts to put on a fair. The post owns the fairground facilities valued at nearly $75,000. It includes a grandstand, track for harness racing and several permanent buildings.

In recent years the American Legion Fair had gotten away from the "county fair" type of program. Exhibits in home economics, agriculture and livestock had become practically non-existent at the fair.

Horace Dunagan Jr., president of the First State Bank, told the chamber that this fair has been a highlight for years, one of Caruthersville's main attractions.

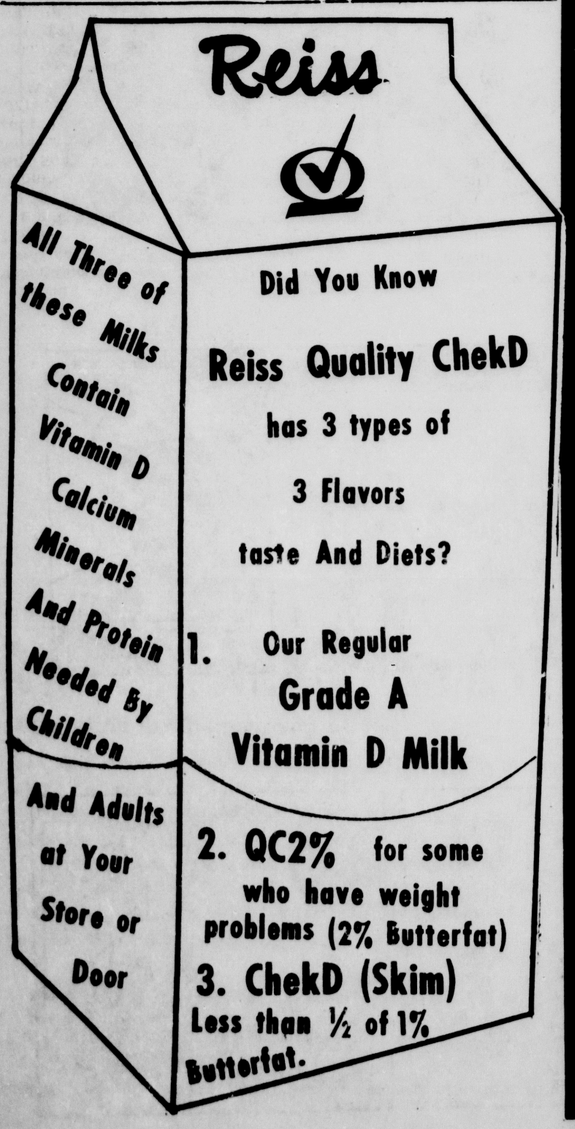

He said the civic groups should get together and set up an even bigger and better fair with new ideas.

The four-day event has had a rich history, and has attracted thousands of residents from not only Missouri, but neighboring Tennessee and Arkansas. One of its major attractions has been harness racing.

Men like James T. Ahern and George Brown, Legionnaires who have devoted much time to the project, remember the fair not only as an attraction to farmers and businessmen, but as the gathering spot for many of Missouri's most notable politicians.

It has been visited by governors, senators, congressmen, and just about every state officer. The greatest day in the fair was in 1946 when President Harry S. Truman made an appearance.

For 33 years the American Legion Fair has been a tradition in Caruthersville - the one relaxing part of cotton picking time. In 1967 it may be just a memory.

1965: USAC-supervised tests proved that a '65 Ford rode quieter than a $17,000 Rolls-Royce.

1966: After comparison rides, owners of the world's most expensive luxury cars like Jaguar and Mercedes-Benz agreed that a '66 Ford was quieter.

1967: At the Lake Placid Olympic ski jump a '67 Ford took leap after punishing leap and rode away still quiet, still strong. Other '67 Fords went on a bone-jarring steeplechase ride and a gruelling trip up and down the Los Angeles Coliseum steps. The results were always the same: still quiet, still strong.

Year after year, you're ahead in a Ford -ahead in quiet, ahead in strength.

Year after year, we do things you'd never do to demonstrate Ford's quiet and strength. This year's tests were the toughest yet. But the durable Ford came through again —quiet and strong. That's because the 1967 Ford is the strongest, quietest Ford we've ever built. Over 150 important parts have been strengthened and improved. And the '67s offer plenty of convenience and luxury features too. SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission that's fully automatic and fully manual. It all adds up to a pretty strong argument for saving at your Ford Dealer's now.

Quieter because it's stronger...stronger because it's better built.

City Voter Turnout Poor School Showing Stronger

Despite the warm temperature and the presence of community antenna television straw vote on the ballot, voter turnout at noon today in the city election was poor.

A total of 260 ballots were cast in the city election for one council post. Incumbent Arthur Ziegenhorn is challenged by Hugh T. McCollum for the seat. The vote taken at noon last year in the city election was 360.

Turnout in the school board election this year at noon was 323 compared to 294 last year.

Candidates in the school board election for two three - year seats are: Thelma West, Willie Joe Harrington and incumbents Robert L. Mitchell and Bruce L. Lewis.

The school tax levy also is included on the school ballot. It requires a two - thirds majority. The total tax levy will remain at $4, if approved. The ballot carries a proposal to vote a $1.20 tax levy for the teacher's fund and a $1 levy for the incidental fund.

The polls opened at 6 a.m. and will remain open until 7 p.m.

Weaver Appeals Cutback

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Dr. John C. Weaver, president of the University of Missouri today asked the Senate Appropriations Committee to restore the $5 million cut in operating funds between the university request and the amount recommended by the governor and approved by the House.

Dr. Weaver said the House appropriation is a strong one. But he added MU must move up in order to stand still because of the intensive competition throughout the country for talented faculty.

"Faculty quality determines the real quality of the university," he said.

The House approved an operation appropriation of nearly $59 million for the four MU campuses.

Dr. Weaver said the University of Missouri is a good university but not a distinguished one—"We presume the intent of the legislature is for improvement."

The university president said if the governor's $5 million cut can be restored the school can at least partially catch up with the salary levels offered by other state supported universities in this area.

The design would be to handle salary increases on three levels.

There would be almost no increase for a portion of the faculty that is needed to keep a status quo in higher education.

A substantial increase is needed for some faculty members because it would cost more than the increase to replace them.

And there would be a top echelon of key faculty members "we must retain or recruit to make a better university."

He said the university's request would provide overall but not across the board increases of about 10 per cent. The governor's recommendation would cut that to between 7 and 8 per cent.

Dr. Weaver noted that increases also must be made for the maintenance and clerical staffs because those employes are now unionized and present scales are only 60 to 75 per cent of union scales.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis, said he had high hopes that by this year Missouri would

Land Bank Citations to Coleman and Schneider

William A. Dickison of St. Louis, former president of the St. Louis Federal Land Bank, speaking on the 50th anniversary of the founding of the National land bank system told audience of farming's growth compared to operations when he joined the bank in 1924.

"When God created the earth he must have had in mind Southeast Missouri, because you have the garden spot of the world," Dickison said at the celebration last night at the Holiday Inn.

Hal Robertson, manager of the Sikeston Federal Land Bank association, was master of ceremonies.

He introduced board members and called them to join in cutting a three-tiered birthday cake.

Two outstanding service plaques were given at the banquet. The first went to Howard Schneider, East Prairie, president of the association and the other to E. P. Coleman.

The Coleman citation read: "The Federal Land Bank's 50th anniversary medal, authorized by the Congress and the President of the United States, is presented to E. P. Coleman, Jr., for outstanding contributions to American Agriculture."

Dickison served the Federal Land Bank system 40 years before his retirement.

"I would like to tell you what has taken place over the years," Dickison said. "In the beginning years there were but 900 loans made for an average of $1,800 each, while today they average $25,000 each.

"Today there are 12,000,000 people on farms or seven per cent of the population, but this segment today has an income of $45 billion with a net income of 32 per cent, with an average increase of four percent per year. The farm debt last year was $40 billion, and will double in 1980.

"Forty years ago you needed an investment of $1,800 to farm. Today an Idaho potato raiser would need $73,000, to receive

Clinic Chief Seeks Temporary Office

David Ragan, 42, administrator of the regional diagnostic clinic for the mentally retarded, is seeking a temporary office to occupy here until the clinic building is completed, scheduled for Dec. 1.

The clinic with beds for 40 patients will be located on a site east of the Missouri Delta Community hospital and will have a staff of 48. It will be one of nine in the state in a new public health program.

He has served as director of the Delmo Housing Corporation at Lilbourn seven years, supervising projects in 10 communities in five Bootheel counties.

Residents Complain About Flies

A petition to have a barn and storage shed removed from a lot east of Ables Road at its juncture with Shady Lane was presented to the city council and tabled after discussion during a Monday night meeting at the city administrative building.

About 20 to 25 residents of the area signed the petition. It was presented to City Manager W. Raymert Miller Monday afternoon. The major complaint is that the keeping of horses at the barns draws flies to the neighborhood.

The flies are a nuisance, particularly during summer, Miller reported that residents complained.

Miller reported to the council that he had discussed the matter with Fred Matthews, the property owner and said that Matthews is in the process of correcting the problem. One of the buildings has been removed and the horses are being kept in the south corner of the lot, Miller said.

A request by the Frisco railroad to install stop signs at four railroad crossings in town was referred to the traffic committee.

Weaver Appeals Cutback

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Dr. John C. Weaver, president of the University of Missouri today asked the Senate Appropriations Committee to restore the $5 million cut in operating funds between the university request and the amount recommended by the governor and approved by the House.

Dr. Weaver said the House appropriation is a strong one. But he added MU must move up in order to stand still because of the intensive competition throughout the country for talented faculty.

"Faculty quality determines the real quality of the university," he said.

The House approved an operation appropriation of nearly $59 million for the four MU campuses.

Dr. Weaver said the University of Missouri is a good university but not a distinguished one—"We presume the intent of the legislature is for improvement."

The university president said if the governor's $5 million cut can be restored the school can at least partially catch up with the salary levels offered by other state supported universities in this area.

The design would be to handle salary increases on three levels.

There would be almost no increase for a portion of the faculty that is needed to keep a status quo in higher education.

A substantial increase is needed for some faculty members because it would cost more than the increase to replace them.

And there would be a top echelon of key faculty members "we must retain or recruit to make a better university."

He said the university's request would provide overall but not across the board increases of about 10 per cent. The governor's recommendation would cut that to between 7 and 8 per cent.

Dr. Weaver noted that increases also must be made for the maintenance and clerical staffs because those employes are now unionized and present scales are only 60 to 75 per cent of union scales.

Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis, said he had high hopes that by this year Missouri would

Land Bank Citations to Coleman and Schneider

William A. Dickison of St. Louis, former president of the St. Louis Federal Land Bank, speaking on the 50th anniversary of the founding of the National land bank system told audience of farming's growth compared to operations when he joined the bank in 1924.

"When God created the earth he must have had in mind Southeast Missouri, because you have the garden spot of the world," Dickison said at the celebration last night at the Holiday Inn.

Hal Robertson, manager of the Sikeston Federal Land Bank association, was master of ceremonies.

He introduced board members and called them to join in cutting a three-tiered birthday cake.

Two outstanding service plaques were given at the banquet. The first went to Howard Schneider, East Prairie, president of the association and the other to E. P. Coleman.

The Coleman citation read: "The Federal Land Bank's 50th anniversary medal, authorized by the Congress and the President of the United States, is presented to E. P. Coleman, Jr., for outstanding contributions to American Agriculture."

Dickison served the Federal Land Bank system 40 years before his retirement.

"I would like to tell you what has taken place over the years," Dickison said. "In the beginning years there were but 900 loans made for an average of $1,800 each, while today they average $25,000 each.

"Today there are 12,000,000 people on farms or seven per cent of the population, but this segment today has an income of $45 billion with a net income of 32 per cent, with an average increase of four percent per year. The farm debt last year was $40 billion, and will double in 1980.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
THE REBELLION OF YOUTH

Most of us remember the warning of Thomas Babington Macaulay that if the United States of America were ever destroyed it would be from within.

Some of us know of Arnold Toynbee's statement: "Of 21 notable civilizations, 19 perished, not from conquests from outside, but from decay within."

We believe these statements point up the significance of the youth protest movement which brushes aside traditional moral standards. It goes further than the protesters; it involves the nation as a whole.

There is no point in trying to tell our rebellious youth that they are acting irrationally. They have a rationale all their own which they sincerely believe.

1. The older "generation" would have liked to "swing" but were too inhibited and hypocritical. At least, many grownups seem to enjoy the wave of pornography which documents the "new freedom."

2. The "work and win" idea is old hat. Economic security has become automatic. Hard work and hard thinking are now done by automation and computers.

3. The world is in a mess - a mess made by their elders and, while the protestors don't know the answers, they are eager to tear up the present rule book. Whatever takes its place, in their opinion, is bound to be better.

4. Old-fashioned morality is a strait jacket arbitrarily imposed on youth to perpetuate outmoded standards, ranging from short haircuts to premarital chastity.

Perhaps there is nothing we can do about these young people. Wherever they are going, they are going on their own. We can hope, of course, that by the time they mature they will have become so bored with sexual freedom and with "hangovers" from "escape" drugs that they will rediscover (and consider brand new) the basic values of life which produce a genuine lasting happiness. They might even swing full circle and start a new Victorian age.

But there is something we can do about the oncoming generation. The big clue is that the "swingers" and "hipsters" get that way while going through the educational process. We must find out what the influences are, where they come from, and how they can be replaced with constructive influences.

SEWARD'S WONDERFUL FOLLY

Observations of the centenary of America's acquisition of Alaska will center on Sitka, the site of an old Russian trading center, on Thursday (March 30.)

The price looked dear a hundred years ago, and people called it "Seward's Folly" or "America's Icebox." The folly was the 586,400 square miles of Alaska, for the purchase of which W. H. Seward, Secretary of State for President Andrew Johnson, signed a treaty with Russia on March 30, 1867. The price was a huge $7.2 million.

Even at what the dollar was worth then, it was a historic bargain. What we got was a land two and one-fifth the size of Texas. It was gold rich, but most of that blew in the Klondike gold rush of 1897-1899. Even so, total value of mineral output in 1965 was $83,489,000, of which $33,835,000 was in oil and $1,505,000 in gold. Also important are coal, silver, natural gas, mercury, uranium, platinum, gravel, sand, and rich oil shale. Not a bad return for the investment.

Alaska became an Organized Territory in 1912. It was voted into the Union as the 49th state on June 30, 1958, and officially became a state by Presidential proclamation on Jan. 3, 1959. The largest political subdivision of the United States, it occupies the Northwest portion of North America, north of 51 degrees N. Lat., bounded on the north by the Arctic Ocean, east by the Canadian Yukon territory and British Columbia, west by the Bering Strait and Bering Sea, and arm of the Pacific, and south and southwest by the Gulf of Alaska and the Pacific Ocean.

It has a general ocean coastline of 4,750 miles - including all its islands, 33,904 miles. It has numerous mountains, fjords, volcanoes, and glaciers.

Southern Alaska was hit on Good Friday, March 27, 1964, by the most powerful earthquake ever recorded in North America. Among places suffering severe damage were Anchorage, Seward, Cordova, Kodiak, and Valdez. The quake caused 115 deaths and lifted some 23,000 sq. miles of land as much as 33 feet. Federal aid, not counting state and local relief, came to $336 million.

Russian traders, moving south from Alaska, which was discovered by Vitus Bering, a Dane employed by Russia, had established a fort as early as 1816 in what is now California. Five years later, in 1821, the Czar gave a Russian company exclusive rights in coastal territory as far south as the 51st parallel, which runs through what is now British Columbia. Russia was a partner of Austria and Prussia in the Holy Alliance, which was suspected of wanting to help Spain recover its American colonies.

In the document establishing the doctrine named after him, President James Monroe told the Russians in 1823 that "the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

Came the purchase in 1867, and the territory was ours. We have never had cause to regret the outlay. Particularly not the more than 253,000 Americans who live there, including Eskimos, Indians and Aleuts. On this centennial year, a salute to Juneau, the capital, and all Alaska is proper.

WE ARE WITH HIM ALL THE WAY

Governor Warren E. Hearnes continues to decry the unfairness of the federal government programs that force states to accept mandatory expenditures. The validity of this and the importance of it cannot be over-emphasized.

In speaking at a Founders' Day dinner of the West Point Alumni Association last week, he cited two basic areas in which this unfairness is apparent. He said:

"First, we did not enter the programs with knowledge that we could incur penalties later through new legislation.

"Second, we enter some of these programs and find federal funds reduced or withdrawn unless we accept later provisions."

What clear-thinking individual can be at odds with the Governor when he points out that his obligation is to keep the state government financially strong by operating on a budget and staying within it?

Or, when he says that "any increase in state tax should result from decisions of a state's people and their elected representatives - not from federal legislation"?

It is crystal clear that launching out on any program (whether it be federal, state, city or personal for that matter) which in the end would result in fiscal chaos or unavailable funds needed to keep it going is the height of folly.

Of equal, if not more, significance is the involvement of surrender of freedom. When the entity of the individual state is absorbed by the power of the federal government, the individual freedom of citizens will go down the drain at the same time.

Too many groups and individuals are clamoring for money from the federal government with utter disregard for the consequences, for their belief in basic principles, or for the arbitrary position the federal government can assume with them.

Not only should "creative federalism" be a matter of grave concern on the part of the Missouri governor and all Missourians, but to every governor and to all citizens of the other 49 states.

There are many individuals who concur with Governor Hearnes in his challenge concerning mandatory federal programs, but who are strangely negligent in giving him firm backing by action and are reluctant to face facts realistically.

The undue concern with which the people of the different states over the nation are allowing decisions to be made for them as a result of federal legislation, particularly in the area of state tax, is alarming.

INFALTION HITS EVERYONE

Not the least vicious aspect of inflation is the tendency to set one group against another, each claiming the other is gouging the public with high prices. As a matter of fact, inflation plays no favorites, and you don't have to be an economist to figure this out. As food prices continue to reflect inflationary governmental fiscal policies that steadily push down the value of the dollar, some people suspect that the farmer, the processor or the distributor is making a killing at the expense of consumers. People do not realize that, in a free competitive market, prices inevitably find the fairest level commensurate with natural laws of supply and demand.

The meat industry, from the farmer to the consumer for example, functions in a free market, and it is highly competitive. Meat packers operate on the narrowest of profit margins. Rising prices do not mean fat profits. Far from it. One major company has reported a serious drop in earnings during a recent six-month period. Company officials said a reduction in the supply of hogs, constant pressure on margins, low volume, high prices and high operating costs were all to blame for the slump.

There, in brief, is the story of inflation. It hits everyone over the long pull. The truly remarkable part is that industries such as meat packing have kept abreast of the demands of a rising population--not only have kept abreast, but have been instrumental in sustaining a steady upward trend in living standards. Inflation or no inflation, if you do not believe this you have but to look at the meat and grocery counters in the nearest supermarket --and one is not very far away. You will see an abundance, the like of which the world has never known. It is there because industries that operate in a free market are the most productive and the most effieicent--attributes that virtually guarantee fair and reasonable prices.

MEANINGLESS GOVERNMENTS?

Governor Hatfield of Oregon is concerned over the possibility of the federal government dominating American education. And this concern is certainly justified. The federal aid to education bill passed by the last Congress gave the government sweeping and unprecedented powers and responsibilities in this field.

In the Governor's view, as stated in a news story, there must be a compact among the states under which ". . . the states will develop national policies for education and make suggestions for the improvement of the policies for education and make suggestions for the improvement of the schools. No state will lose any of its powers, because no state can be forced to accept any suggestions. Under our present system, the federal, state and local levels each have a role. But the system will be fragmented unless we have something like the compact."

What is true of education, it can be added, is true of all manner of activities which are traditionally within the rights and obligations of nonfederal government -- but into which the heavy hand of the federal bureaucracy has been increasingly extended.

The steady diminution of state and local responsibility and authority is one of the more ominous developments of the time. Unless these units assert themselves -- through action, not just words -- they will ultimately become governments in name only, and their existence will be meaningless.

CASTRO THE TROUBLEMAKER

Fidel Castro's Cuba, not content with continuing efforts to export Marxism revolution in the Western Hemisphere, is now engaged in trying to stir up trouble in a number of African nations.

Arms and military missions have been sent into several countries. Technical advisors from Cuba have spread out over Africa. Political activities are directed from Cuban Embassies. Antiwestern propaganda is airwaved from Cuba to Africa in English, French and Swahili.

Castro's efforts are tailored to the individual country. Support goes to rebel groups trying to overthrow existing moderate governments in the former Belgian Congo, Chana and Cameroon. The Cuban communists work with leftists already in power in Brazzaville Congo, Mali, Guinea and Tanzania. And they strive to ingratiate themselves with regimes they think can cause trouble for the West, as in Egypt, Algeria, Iraq and Syria.

For example, in Guinea and Tanzania one of the functions of the Cuban missions is to equip and train anti-Portuguese rebels for attacks against Portuguese Guinea and Moambique. In Brazzaville Congo, Cuban troops are the mainstay of the anti-U.S. government of Alphonse Massamba-Debat. Numbers of Africans are being sent to Cuba for military, technical and political training. When they return to their home countries, they have of course been thoroughly indoctrinated with the communist ideology.

These are some of the results of allowing the cancer of communism to develop in an island just 90 miles from the U. S. mainland. Africa is said to be a continent in ferment, and the communists will keep it that way. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Biggest backstage lobbying drive on Capitol Hill right now is being staged by natural gas companies to gut the pipeline safety bill now scheduled for hearing before the Senate Commerce Committee April 19. The lobby has been so effective that the Johnson administration, which roared in like a March lion with an excellent pipeline safety bill, seems about to retreat like a March hare.

Chief lobbyists are the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, the American Gas Association, and the Columbia Gas Transmission Company. They have unleashed a terrific pressure drive on two fronts:

Front No. 1 is the White House and Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd.

Front No. 2 is Congress. Congressmen are being given the carrot - and - stick treatment -- campaign contributions for them if they vote right; campaign contributions against them if they vote wrong.

What spurred the Johnson ad bill was the catastrophic fire in Queens, N. Y., on January 13 when old and rusted pipelines leaked, and escaping gas, catching on fire, sent a sheet of flame through 12 city blocks. No fire fighting squad could cope with it.

THE LOBBY'S DEMANDS

Despite this tragedy, the gas industry is battling for the following drastic modifications of the administration's pipeline safety bill:

1. No criminal penalties for failure to remedy defective pipeline. The drug companies are subject to criminal penalties if they make a mistake in labeling or manufacturing harmful drugs; but the pipeline companies want no punishment if they let rusty pipe explode.

2. No safety standards for distribution lines. These are the lines that pass through cities such as that which caused the fire in Queens. The gas companies want the bill to apply only to long distance transmission lines between cities, not inside cities where the population is dense and the danger greater.

3. Provision that safety standards must be drawn up by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. These have been so weak in the past that the standards of some gas companies exceed them. Requirement that the government standards be based on the ASME code would turn the law into a sham.

4. Requiring that any inspection to determine pipeline compliance be under he same American Society of Mechanical Engineers, thus rounding out this unabashed move by the gas industry to control itself.

Despite the catastrophic fire in Queens and other pipeline disasters from Louisiana to Kentucky, Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd and Joseph Califano of the White House staff are reported weakening. They don't seem to realize that LBJ is vulnerable on anything pertaining to natural gas. When he was senator from Texas, he was the gas and oil industry's most effective spokesman.

PEACE AND OUTER SPACE

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is about to award a contract for peaceplanning to a company which does 68 per cent of its business with the defense department. In addition, one of its executives is a former central intelligence official.

The contract is for $283,000 to survey the peacetime uses of satellites. The space agency wants to demonstrate that satellites are not going to be stationed in outer space as military outposts or espionage units.

It's true that some satellites are now used for spying purposes and take pictures of Russian military bases as they orbit the earth. But the space agency wants to get away from this and demonstrate that satellites can be used not only to transmit radio, TV and telephone messages, but improve agriculture as well.

Despite this, NASA is about to award the "Peace" contract to the Planning Research Corporation, which admits that 68 per cent of its business is with the defense department and whose manager of economics, Norman H. Jones, was a deputy at central intelligence.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

THE REBELLION OF YOUTH

Most of us remember the warning of Thomas Babington Macaulay that if the United States of America were ever destroyed it would be from within.

Some of us know of Arnold Toynbee's statement: "Of 21 notable civilizations, 19 perished, not from conquests from outside, but from decay within."

We believe these statements point up the significance of the youth protest movement which brushes aside traditional moral standards. It goes further than the protesters; it involves the nation as a whole.

There is no point in trying to tell our rebellious youth that they are acting irrationally. They have a rationale all their own which they sincerely believe.

1. The older "generation" would have liked to "swing" but were too inhibited and hypocritical. At least, many grownups seem to enjoy the wave of pornography which documents the "new freedom."

2. The "work and win" idea is old hat. Economic security has become automatic. Hard work and hard thinking are now done by automation and computers.

3. The world is in a mess - a mess made by their elders and, while the protestors don't know the answers, they are eager to tear up the present rule book. Whatever takes its place, in their opinion, is bound to be better.

4. Old-fashioned morality is a strait jacket arbitrarily imposed on youth to perpetuate outmoded standards, ranging from short haircuts to premarital chastity.

Perhaps there is nothing we can do about these young people. Wherever they are going, they are going on their own. We can hope, of course, that by the time they mature they will have become so bored with sexual freedom and with "hangovers" from "escape" drugs that they will rediscover (and consider brand new) the basic values of life which produce a genuine lasting happiness. They might even swing full circle and start a new Victorian age.

But there is something we can do about the oncoming generation. The big clue is that the "swingers" and "hipsters" get that way while going through the educational process. We must find out what the influences are, where they come from, and how they can be replaced with constructive influences.

SEWARD'S WONDERFUL FOLLY

Observations of the centenary of America's acquisition of Alaska will center on Sitka, the site of an old Russian trading center, on Thursday (March 30.)

The price looked dear a hundred years ago, and people called it "Seward's Folly" or "America's Icebox." The folly was the 586,400 square miles of Alaska, for the purchase of which W. H. Seward, Secretary of State for President Andrew Johnson, signed a treaty with Russia on March 30, 1867. The price was a huge $7.2 million.

Even at what the dollar was worth then, it was a historic bargain. What we got was a land two and one-fifth the size of Texas. It was gold rich, but most of that blew in the Klondike gold rush of 1897-1899. Even so, total value of mineral output in 1965 was $83,489,000, of which $33,835,000 was in oil and $1,505,000 in gold. Also important are coal, silver, natural gas, mercury, uranium, platinum, gravel, sand, and rich oil shale. Not a bad return for the investment.

Alaska became an Organized Territory in 1912. It was voted into the Union as the 49th state on June 30, 1958, and officially became a state by Presidential proclamation on Jan. 3, 1959. The largest political subdivision of the United States, it occupies the Northwest portion of North America, north of 51 degrees N. Lat., bounded on the north by the Arctic Ocean, east by the Canadian Yukon territory and British Columbia, west by the Bering Strait and Bering Sea, and arm of the Pacific, and south and southwest by the Gulf of Alaska and the Pacific Ocean.

It has a general ocean coastline of 4,750 miles - including all its islands, 33,904 miles. It has numerous mountains, fjords, volcanoes, and glaciers.

Southern Alaska was hit on Good Friday, March 27, 1964, by the most powerful earthquake ever recorded in North America. Among places suffering severe damage were Anchorage, Seward, Cordova, Kodiak, and Valdez. The quake caused 115 deaths and lifted some 23,000 sq. miles of land as much as 33 feet. Federal aid, not counting state and local relief, came to $336 million.

Russian traders, moving south from Alaska, which was discovered by Vitus Bering, a Dane employed by Russia, had established a fort as early as 1816 in what is now California. Five years later, in 1821, the Czar gave a Russian company exclusive rights in coastal territory as far south as the 51st parallel, which runs through what is now British Columbia. Russia was a partner of Austria and Prussia in the Holy Alliance, which was suspected of wanting to help Spain recover its American colonies.

In the document establishing the doctrine named after him, President James Monroe told the Russians in 1823 that "the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

Came the purchase in 1867, and the territory was ours. We have never had cause to regret the outlay. Particularly not the more than 253,000 Americans who live there, including Eskimos, Indians and Aleuts. On this centennial year, a salute to Juneau, the capital, and all Alaska is proper.

WE ARE WITH HIM ALL THE WAY

Governor Warren E. Hearnes continues to decry the unfairness of the federal government programs that force states to accept mandatory expenditures. The validity of this and the importance of it cannot be over-emphasized.

In speaking at a Founders' Day dinner of the West Point Alumni Association last week, he cited two basic areas in which this unfairness is apparent. He said:

"First, we did not enter the programs with knowledge that we could incur penalties later through new legislation.

"Second, we enter some of these programs and find federal funds reduced or withdrawn unless we accept later provisions."

What clear-thinking individual can be at odds with the Governor when he points out that his obligation is to keep the state government financially strong by operating on a budget and staying within it?

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Nine out of 10 millionaires explain their success by saying that it was the result of their own hard work. The 10th will admit that luck played an equal role.

One of the most popular performers in show business must be Lauren Bacall, better known as "Betty." You never hear anyone say of her, "She's a nice girl, but —."

A junior executive always feels like he's still a junior executive until he starts keeping stomach pills in his desk drawer and his doctor promotes him by telling him he is an incipient ulcer case.

One way to solve the problem created by skyscraper-tall players in basketball might be to lower the baskets to a height only four feet from the floor. The game would then be no more ridiculous than it is now.

Nothing disturbs a woman more than to lose her bag. Who steals a man's purse steals merely trash, but who steals a woman's purse steals the whole junkyard of her existence.

The two forms of life in Manhattan that are in greatest public disapproval now seem to be taxicab drivers and pigeons. People complain there are too few of the one and too many of the other.

Whenever I see a young girl or an old lady reading an astrology book on the subway, I have the feeling that 5,000 years of civilization have gone down the drain of time.

Guys whose trousers first show signs of fraying at the right-hand pocket are usually pretty generous joes.

If husbands knew what their wives' haidressers know, the number of marriages that go on the rocks would double overnight. On the other hand, if wives knew what their husbands' barbers know, it wouldn't make any difference whatsoever.

A really gracious woman is one who behaves at a crowded department store sale just as she would if she were receiving unexpected visitors at home.

One of the things grownups secretly envy children most is the thrill they get out of riding up and down on an escalator.

If a woman takes the trouble to pluck a piece of lint off a fellow's coat jacket, he can be sure she likes him. Women don't touch things they dislike unless they have to.

If God had been a committee, He'd never have been able to make the world in six days.

A small town grocer employed a good-looking girl as clerk who helped him rearrange the shelves so that the raisin bread was at the very top. Accordingly, she had to climb a ladder to reach it.

The town cut-ups were quick to take advantage of the situation, and all agreed that the view was spectacular. Finally the oldest inhabitant showed up and asked for raisin bread. The girl climbed the ladder, and when she was almost up she looked down, apparently having forgotten what he asked for, and said, "Raisin?"

"Nope," said the old fellow. "Just twitchin."

MEANINGLESS GOVERNMENTS?

Governor Hatfield of Oregon is concerned over the possibility of the federal government dominating American education. And this concern is certainly justified. The federal aid to education bill passed by the last Congress gave the government sweeping and unprecedented powers and responsibilities in this field.

In the Governor's view, as stated in a news story, there must be a compact among the states under which ". . . the states will develop national policies for education and make suggestions for the improvement of the policies for education and make suggestions for the improvement of the schools. No state will lose any of its powers, because no state can be forced to accept any suggestions. Under our present system, the federal, state and local levels each have a role. But the system will be fragmented unless we have something like the compact."

What is true of education, it can be added, is true of all manner of activities which are traditionally within the rights and obligations of nonfederal government -- but into which the heavy hand of the federal bureaucracy has been increasingly extended.

The steady diminution of state and local responsibility and authority is one of the more ominous developments of the time. Unless these units assert themselves -- through action, not just words -- they will ultimately become governments in name only, and their existence will be meaningless.

A young woman had just finished her first aid course and upon leaving the instructional center spied a man looking face down over a flooded gutter. She ran to him, flipped him on his back and began to apply mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

The man suddenly sat up pushed the woman away. "I don' know what you have in mind lady," the man said, "but I'm supposed to be opening this drain!"

Planning a vacation stay in Florida, the traveler didn't know what to do with his dog. He decided to write the hotel and ask if dogs were allowed.

Promptly, the hotel manager wrote back: "I've been in this business for 30 years. Never have I called on the police to eject a disorderly dog. Never has a dog set fire to a bed with a cigarette. I have never found a hotel towel or blanket in a dog's suitcase. Nor a whiskey ring on a dresser. Sure, the dog is welcome."

And the manager added a postscript: "If the dog will vouch for you, come along, too."

H.L. Hunt Says

CASTRO THE TROUBLEMAKER

Fidel Castro's Cuba, not content with continuing efforts to export Marxism revolution in the Western Hemisphere, is now engaged in trying to stir up trouble in a number of African nations.

Arms and military missions have been sent into several countries. Technical advisors from Cuba have spread out over Africa. Political activities are directed from Cuban Embassies. Antiwestern propaganda is airwaved from Cuba to Africa in English, French and Swahili.

Castro's efforts are tailored to the individual country. Support goes to rebel groups trying to overthrow existing moderate governments in the former Belgian Congo, Chana and Cameroon. The Cuban communists work with leftists already in power in Brazzaville Congo, Mali, Guinea and Tanzania. And they strive to ingratiate themselves with regimes they think can cause trouble for the West, as in Egypt, Algeria, Iraq and Syria.

For example, in Guinea and Tanzania one of the functions of the Cuban missions is to equip and train anti-Portuguese rebels for attacks against Portuguese Guinea and Moambique. In Brazzaville Congo, Cuban troops are the mainstay of the anti-U.S. government of Alphonse Massamba-Debat. Numbers of Africans are being sent to Cuba for military, technical and political training. When they return to their home countries, they have of course been thoroughly indoctrinated with the communist ideology.

These are some of the results of allowing the cancer of communism to develop in an island just 90 miles from the U. S. mainland. Africa is said to be a continent in ferment, and the communists will keep it that way. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Biggest backstage lobbying drive on Capitol Hill right now is being staged by natural gas companies to gut the pipeline safety bill now scheduled for hearing before the Senate Commerce Committee April 19. The lobby has been so effective that the Johnson administration, which roared in like a March lion with an excellent pipeline safety bill, seems about to retreat like a March hare.

Chief lobbyists are the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, the American Gas Association, and the Columbia Gas Transmission Company. They have unleashed a terrific pressure drive on two fronts:

Front No. 1 is the White House and Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd.

Front No. 2 is Congress. Congressmen are being given the carrot - and - stick treatment -- campaign contributions for them if they vote right; campaign contributions against them if they vote wrong.

What spurred the Johnson adbill was the catastrophic fire in Queens, N. Y., on January 13 when old and rusted pipelines leaked, and escaping gas, catching on fire, sent a sheet of flame through 12 city blocks. No fire fighting squad could cope with it.

THE LOBBY'S DEMANDS

Despite this tragedy, the gas industry is battling for the following drastic modifications of the administration's pipeline safety bill:

1. No criminal penalties for failure to remedy defective pipeline. The drug companies are subject to criminal penalties if they make a mistake in labeling or manufacturing harmful drugs; but the pipeline companies want no punishment if they let rusty pipe explode.

2. No safety standards for distribution lines. These are the lines that pass through cities such as that which caused the fire in Queens. The gas companies want the bill to apply only to long distance transmission lines between cities, not inside cities where the population is dense and the danger greater.

3. Provision that safety standards must be drawn up by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. These have been so weak in the past that the standards of some gas companies exceed them. Requirement that the government standards be based on the ASME code would turn the law into a sham.

4. Requiring that any inspection to determine pipeline compliance be under he same American Society of Mechanical Engineers, thus rounding out this unabashed move by the gas industry to control itself.

Despite the catastrophic fire in Queens and other pipeline disasters from Louisiana to Kentucky, Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd and Joseph Califano of the White House staff are reported weakening. They don't seem to realize that LBJ is vulnerable on anything pertaining to natural gas. When he was senator from Texas, he was the gas and oil industry's most effective spokesman.

PEACE AND OUTER SPACE

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is about to award a contract for peaceplanning to a company which does 68 per cent of its business with the defense department. In addition, one of its executives is a former central intelligence official.

The contract is for $283,000 to survey the peacetime uses of satellites. The space agency wants to demonstrate that satellites are not going to be stationed in outer space as military outposts or espionage units.

It's true that some satellites are now used for spying purposes and take pictures of Russian military bases as they orbit the earth. But the space agency wants to get away from this and demonstrate that satellites can be used not only to transmit radio, TV and telephone messages, but improve agriculture as well.

Despite this, NASA is about to award the "Peace" contract to the Planning Research Corporation, which admits that 68 per cent of its business is with the defense department and whose manager of economics, Norman H. Jones, was a deputy at central intelligence.

NOTES FROM DIXIE

Watch for Bobby Richards, former second baseman for the New York Yankees, to run for congress against Democrat Tom Gettys of Rock Hill, S.C. Gettys has cut no ice in Washington, aside from voting for the big bankers against Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana, Tex. . . . Jimmy Byrnes, ex-Governor of South Carolina and former secretary of state under Truman, differed with Truman over Russia at the end of the war and eventually resigned. Byrnes went to Moscow to try to patch up relations with our important war - time ally, but Truman scolded him immediately after he got back . . . Today, President Johnson is following, in effect, the Byrnes policy of friendly relations with Russia. But the two South Carolina senators voted the other way when it came to ratification of the USA-USSR Counsular Treaty. They were against this move to improve relations.

CAPITAL CHAFF

John Connor has told friends that he resigned as Secretary of Commerce because President Johnson never included him in the meetings on economic policy . . . President Johnson complained wearily to aides the other day that his time is taken up by too many people who ought to be talking to his staff. He has figured out that 117 federal officials now report to him. . . LBJ has laid down the law that the Vietnam war is costing so much money that foreign aid increases are out of the question. . . The Viet Cong mission in Cairo has been stepping up its activities among the Palestinian Arabs. Several have been recruited for combat training in North Vietnam.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kindle

James R. Kindles Mark Silver Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kindle, 215 Petroleum St., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Friday night at the home of their son, Bob Kindle and wife, 220 Petroleum.

Helping to celebrate were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kindle and daughter Cheri, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kindle and daughter, Sally, of Morehouse, Mrs. Clara Michael, mother of Mrs. James Kindle and Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Dockins.

The table was covered with a white lace cloth. A white cake decorated in silver was flanked on each side with large white candles in silver holders. A silver bowl held an arrangement of white Fuji mums, snapdragons and pompoms, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Dockins. Cake, coffee, soft drinks and tea were served.

Luci Back in White House

WASHINGTON AP -- Luci Johnson Nugent was back in the White House again after a five-month absence and "loving the gaiety and excitement" of a state dinner honoring the visiting president of Turkey.

Her black hair upswept, wearing a flowing A-line apricot chiffon dress from her wedding trousseau, she was a center of attraction.

Guests like actress Beatrice Lillie, ex - Secretary of State Dean Acheson and movie mogul Spyros Skouras couldn't compete with radiant Luci, returned for a visit with her parents.

The President's 19 - year - old daughter, expecting her first child "around June 17," sported her first manicure in months and proclaimed: "You don't know how great it is to feel elegant again."

Back from Texas in the spring vacation time, Luci has been "sleeping late and enjoying herself", her fond mother confided.

Luci and her older sister, Lynda Bird, elegant in a gold evening gown, were bubbling over with talk.

Lynda, 23, is still sparking romantic rumors about her dates with movie actor George Hamilton -- the most recent one an appearnce last weekend at what she called the "beautiful wedding" in Chicago of Sharon Percy, daughter of Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and John D. Rockefeller IV.

Lynda admitted she and George were late arriving at the ceremonies as newspapers reported. But she didn't want to explain why because she said it would just keep the story alive.

Luci and husband Patrick J. Nugent have been living in a rented duplex house in Austin, Tex., and Luci confirmed they will eventually have to have a bigger place.

Looking around the White House, Luci said she didn't know how much she missed it until she came back.

But she announced firmly that she plans to have her baby born in Texas, explaining: "That's my home."

While serving in a remote area of Southeast Asia, I wrote my wife of the long evening, the shortage of books and music, and the abundance of winsome lasses. I mused that I might fill the lonely hours learning to play a harmonica, if I had one. By return mail came a harmonica.

When I finally returned home, I was met at the airport by my wife, who said, "All right, first things first. Let's hear you play that harmonica!"

Carrot Custard Is Nutritious

By Mrs. Mattie E. Aslin
Extension Home Economist University Extension Center.

KENNETT -- The deep yellow vegetables and dark - green vegetables are the richest in vitamins and minerals. When these vegetables are mentioned we may too often think of creamed carrots and buttered spinach. Monotony in flavors and form in foods do not challenge the taste buds or the cook.

Have you made "Carrot Custard?" Carrot custard is more nutritious than carrot cake because it is lower in calories and higher in mineral content.

Carrot custard is easily prepared; this is especially suitable as a desert when an oven meal is planned. Slightly beat 3 eggs, add 1 ½ cups grated raw carrot and mix 2¼ cups water with 1 cup non fat dry milk or use 3 cups fluid milk and 1 teaspoon salt plus a few grains pepper; mixing these ingredients well. Pour into buttered baking dish and set in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until set; about 45 minutes.

Yellow vegetables are high in vitamin A which is needed for healthy skin, better eye sight and protection against diseases. Yellow vegetables give us energy also. The sweet potato is one vitamin filled food which you can combine with apples. Pare boil the sweet potatoes, peel and slice 1 cup boiled sweet potato cut in ¼ inch slices. Cover with ¾ cup thinly sliced apples. Spinkle with about ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Put in 1 more cup potatoes, then ¾ cup apples, then salt, sugar, and table salt. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour.

Winter squash baked with butter or margarine, sugar, and spice add a special texture to a meal. Pumpkin may be cooked any way which squash is prepared. . .

Winter squash is a family of different squashes. Some large, some small, some yellow, some green or other colors. Under proper conditions they keep well as they have hard dry skins. They have yellow flesh that is high in food value. You may wish to plant some of these varieties which are Hubbard, Acron, Butternut, Turban, Cushaw.

The Extension bulletin "Your Yellow Vegetables" discusses other qualities of this class of food. "Your Greens" is another bulletin which you might like to help you get variety in preparing vegetables.

In a Dublin bookstore: "There are over 8000 books banned in Eire. If by chance we have one on display, please inform us and it will be destroyed."

Hello! We are going to have a ladies doubles round robin tournament Sunday, April 16 at 1 p.m. at Imperial Lanes. There will be a $502 prize fund based on 32 teams entered so hurry up and get your entry in today. If you have any questions about this tourney, please call Glenda Becker or me and we'll try to answer them.

The Tuesday Morning Housewives League finished its league season and last week we had our lunchen. I should have told Vera Gaston to do something good the first of the season so I could write about her because ever since I told her that she has really poured it on. All kidding aside Vera, you know how I feel about you. If I can I really pour it on too. Vera took both high game and series this week with a 200-514. Don't stop now gal do it again.

He is still bowling on the early league on Tuesday night and enjoying every minute of it. He and Mother went fishing over the weekend to Kentucky Lake and caught scads of fish. Fishing is another thing I don't care for but for those like Glenda Becker and Mother and Daddy who are wild about it they can do my share.

See you all next week!

Registrations Being Accepted

Registrations are now being accepted for the next class in the Looking Glass charm course at the Accent Shop.

During the past year four classes, 56 area girls, have completed the course.

The course is not designed to teach girls to be professional models. Girls who take the course are girls who want to be more feminine, more poised, and more knowledgeable in the highly competitive world of today. Some of the girls may discover that they wish to go to further study in the field. In many of these classes girls become interested in a career in fashion and may become models, fashion coordinators, fashion writers, department store buyers. Whatever their reason for taking the course, they are a part of a group of thousands of girls all over the United States who are taking similar courses.

The basic course is divided into six lessons. The girls study skin care and basic make-up in the first lesson. A make-up demonstration is given and each girl receives personal consultation about her own makeup needs. In the second lesson students work on figure control through posture and exercise. Visual poise is stressed which includes sitting, walking, climbing stairs, and getting in and out of cars. Other areas covered are wardrobe, hair care and styling techniques, voice, conversation and social etiquette.

Supplementary material is given on how to decorate their room and on how to entertain.

Mrs. Davis Gives Program

The Meadow Lane Garden club met Monday afternoon in the Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian church. Mrs. M. H. Davis, president, conducted the business meeting. Roll call was answered by each member naming the kind of seeds they had planted.

A note of thanks was read from the Shuffit nursing home thanking the club for the Easter baskets the club members prepared and delivered to the homes. Also read was a letter from Mrs. Nellie Bird of Paris, Tenn., a former member of the club, in which she invited the club members to attend the flower show May 3, given by the garden club there.

Plans were made for the club members to make flower arrangements for the banquet to be held at the American Legion hall this weekend for the Methodist conference.

Mrs. Davis was named as a delegate to attend the state garden club convention to be held in Jefferson City on May 10, 11 and 12. Mrs. E. F. Weidemann was named as alternate.

The club voted to place a book in the Public Library in memory of A. L. Waller and Mrs. Weidemann was appointed to select the book.

Mrs. Davis was in charge of the program, "Flower Arranging" and she gave a demonstration on the proper way to arrange flowers in different types of containers.

Construction Will Start On Cape Dorms

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Work on two additional 12-story dormitories at State College is not expected to start for at least two more weeks, the McCarthy Brothers Co., of Ladue, one of the contractors, reported.

McCarthy and the J.E. Hathman Construction Co., of Jefferson City submitted the low base bid of $3,511,500 for the project in December.

The figure was $125,500 above the college budget of $3,386,000 for the buildings. With architect fees and other costs, $459,000 in additional funds was needed.

In late January, the Housing and Home Finance Agency approved an increase in the loan from federal funds.

Friday, the State College Board of Regents passed an amended loan resolution accepting the additional funds.

McCarthy-Hathman were contractors for the original two high-rise dormitories built at the college.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kindle

James R. Kindles Mark Silver Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kindle, 215 Petroleum St., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Friday night at the home of their son, Bob Kindle and wife, 220 Petroleum.

Helping to celebrate were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kindle and daughter Cheri, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kindle and daughter, Sally, of Morehouse, Mrs. Clara Michael, mother of Mrs. James Kindle and Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Dockins.

The table was covered with a white lace cloth. A white cake decorated in silver was flanked on each side with large white candles in silver holders. A silver bowl held an arrangement of white Fuji mums, snapdragons and pompoms, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Dockins. Cake, coffee, soft drinks and tea were served.

Luci Back in White House

WASHINGTON AP -- Luci Johnson Nugent was back in the White House again after a five-month absence and "loving the gaiety and excitement" of a state dinner honoring the visiting president of Turkey.

Her black hair upswept, wearing a flowing A-line apricot chiffon dress from her wedding trousseau, she was a center of attraction.

Guests like actress Beatrice Lillie, ex-Secretary of State Dean Acheson and movie mogul Spyros Skouras couldn't compete with radiant Luci, returned for a visit with her parents.

The President's 19-year-old daughter, expecting her first child "around June 17," sported her first manicure in months and proclaimed: "You don't know how great it is to feel elegant again."

Back from Texas in the spring vacation time, Luci has been "sleeping late and enjoying herself", her fond mother confided.

Luci and her older sister, Lynda Bird, elegant in a gold evening gown, were bubbling over with talk.

Lynda, 23, is still sparking romantic rumors about her dates with movie actor George Hamilton -- the most recent one an appearnce last weekend at what she called the "beautiful wedding" in Chicago of Sharon Percy, daughter of Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and John D. Rockefeller IV.

Lynda admitted she and George were late arriving at the ceremonies as newspapers reported. But she didn't want to explain why because she said it would just keep the story alive.

Luci and husband Patrick J. Nugent have been living in a rented duplex house in Austin, Tex., and Luci confirmed they will eventually have to have a bigger place.

Looking around the White House, Luci said she didn't know how much she missed it until she came back.

But she announced firmly that she plans to have her baby born in Texas, explaining: "That's my home."

While serving in a remote area of Southeast Asia, I wrote my wife of the long evening, the shortage of books and music, and the abundance of winsome lasses. I mused that I might fill the lonely hours learning to play a harmonica, if I had one. By return mail came a harmonica.

When I finally returned home, I was met at the airport by my wife, who said, "All right, first things first. Let's hear you play that harmonica!"

Carrot Custard Is Nutritious

By Mrs. Mattie E. Aslin
Extension Home Economist University Extension Center.

KENNETT -- The deep yellow vegetables and dark-green vegetables are the richest in vitamins and minerals. When these vegetables are mentioned we may too often think of creamed carrots and buttered spinach. Monotony in flavors and form in foods do not challenge the taste buds or the cook.

Have you made "Carrot Custard?" Carrot custard is more nutritious than carrot cake because it is lower in calories and higher in mineral content.

Carrot custard is easily prepared; this is especially suitable as a desert when an oven meal is planned. Slightly beat 3 eggs, add 1 ½ cups grated raw carrot and mix 2¼ cups water with 1 cup non fat dry milk or use 3 cups fluid milk and 1 teaspoon salt plus a few grains pepper; mixing these ingredients well. Pour into buttered baking dish and set in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until set; about 45 minutes.

Yellow vegetables are high in vitamin A which is needed for healthy skin, better eye sight and protection against diseases. Yellow vegetables give us energy also. The sweet potato is one vitamin filled food which you can combine with apples. Pare boil the sweet potatoes, peel and slice 1 cup boiled sweet potato cut in ¼ inch slices. Cover with ¾ cup thinly sliced apples. Spinkle with about ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Put in 1 more cup potatoes, then ¾ cup apples, then salt, sugar, and table salt. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour.

Winter squash baked with butter or margarine, sugar, and spice add a special texture to a meal. Pumpkin may be cooked any way which squash is prepared. . .

Winter squash is a family of different squashes. Some large, some small, some yellow, some green or other colors. Under proper conditions they keep well as they have hard dry skins. They have yellow flesh that is high in food value. You may wish to plant some of these varieties which are Hubbard, Acron, Butternut, Turban, Cushaw.

The Extension bulletin "Your Yellow Vegetables" discusses other qualities of this class of food. "Your Greens" is another bulletin which you might like to help you get variety in preparing vegetables.

In a Dublin bookstore: "There are over 8000 books banned in Eire. If by chance we have one on display, please inform us and it will be destroyed."

Hello! We are going to have a ladies doubles round robin tournament Sunday, April 16 at 1 p.m. at Imperial Lanes. There will be a $502 prize fund based on 32 teams entered so hurry up and get your entry in today. If you have any questions about this tourney, please call Glenda Becker or me and we'll try to answer them.

The Tuesday Morning Housewives League finished its league season and last week we had our lunchen. All kidding aside Vera, you know how I feel about you. If I can I really pour it on too. Vera took both high game and series this week with a 200-514. Don't stop now gal do it again.

He is still bowling on the early league on Tuesday night and enjoying every minute of it. He and Mother went fishing over the weekend to Kentucky Lake and caught scads of fish. Fishing is another thing I don't care for but for those like Glenda Becker and Mother and Daddy who are wild about it they can do my share.

See you all next week!

Registrations Being Accepted

Registrations are now being accepted for the next class in the Looking Glass charm course at the Accent Shop.

During the past year four classes, 56 area girls, have completed the course.

The course is not designed to teach girls to be professional models. Girls who take the course are girls who want to be more feminine, more poised, and more knowledgeable in the highly competitive world of today. Some of the girls may discover that they wish to go to further study in the field. In many of these classes girls become interested in a career in fashion and may become models, fashion coordinators, fashion writers, department store buyers. Whatever their reason for taking the course, they are a part of a group of thousands of girls all over the United States who are taking similar courses.

The basic course is divided into six lessons. The girls study skin care and basic make-up in the first lesson. A make-up demonstration is given and each girl receives personal consultation about her own makeup needs. In the second lesson students work on figure control through posture and exercise. Visual poise is stressed which includes sitting, walking, climbing stairs, and getting in and out of cars. Other areas covered are wardrobe, hair care and styling techniques, voice, conversation and social etiquette.

Supplementary material is given on how to decorate their room and on how to entertain.

Mrs. Davis Gives Program

The Meadow Lane Garden club met Monday afternoon in the Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian church. Mrs. M. H. Davis, president, conducted the business meeting. Roll call was answered by each member naming the kind of seeds they had planted.

A note of thanks was read from the Shuffit nursing home thanking the club for the Easter baskets the club members prepared and delivered to the homes. Also read was a letter from Mrs. Nellie Bird of Paris, Tenn., a former member of the club, in which she invited the club members to attend the flower show May 3, given by the garden club there.

Plans were made for the club members to make flower arrangements for the banquet to be held at the American Legion hall this weekend for the Methodist conference.

Mrs. Davis was named as a delegate to attend the state garden club convention to be held in Jefferson City on May 10, 11 and 12. Mrs. E. F. Weidemann was named as alternate.

The club voted to place a book in the Public Library in memory of A. L. Waller and Mrs. Weidemann was appointed to select the book.

Mrs. Davis was in charge of the program, "Flower Arranging" and she gave a demonstration on the proper way to arrange flowers in different types of containers.

Construction Will Start On Cape Dorms

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Work on two additional 12-story dormitories at State College is not expected to start for at least two more weeks, the McCarthy Brothers Co., of Ladue, one of the contractors, reported.

McCarthy and the J.E. Hathman Construction Co., of Jefferson City submitted the low base bid of $3,511,500 for the project in December.

The figure was $125,500 above the college budget of $3,386,000 for the buildings. With architect fees and other costs, $459,000 in additional funds was needed.

In late January, the Housing and Home Finance Agency approved an increase in the loan from federal funds.

Friday, the State College Board of Regents passed an amended loan resolution accepting the additional funds.

McCarthy-Hathman were contractors for the original two high-rise dormitories built at the college.

Dogs Seek Third Straight

Jackson high school will furnish the opposition as the Sikeston Bulldogs baseball team invades Legion Park for its third game of the young season tomorrow afternoon. Game time is 4 p.m.

The Dogs now hold a 2-0 record. The Indians are shooting for their first win after suffering a loss to St. Genevieve last Thursday 11-6.

Sikeston has defeated Chaffee and Oran, two of the better clubs in the area.

Coach Lou Weiss of the Indians says that he expects his team to be shallow this season. He has six sophomores starting and only one returning starter, junior Bill Lewis, who is a one year letterman, plays in the outfield and pitches.

For the Bulldogs, Coach Hal Lane sees steady improvement for the Dogs and thinks the boys are doing real well for the season to be so young.

No changes are expected to be made in the Sikeston lineup except they will be playing for the next two or three weeks without the services of Bruce Farris, due to injuries of his right hand. Farris, only a sophomore was one of the Dogs hopefuls for a starting position. Coach Lane's squad could use his batting power and his fielding and pitching.

Right hander, Rudy Manley, is scheduled to take the mound for the Dogs. Francis Monroe or Joe Lowes will throw for Jackson.

Wills' Shoes Ruled Illegal

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Maury Wills, an acknowledged base thief, has been notified his new-style baseball shoes are illegal.

Warren Giles, National League president, ordered Wills, who has stolen nine bases in nine tries this spring, to change his shoes by opening day.

Giles' order, revealed Monday, did not cite any reasons.

Wills changed this spring to shoes that resemble track shoes. The traditional baseball shoe's spikes are triangular, but on Wills' new shoes the spikes are straight and blunt.

"I don't see anything wrong with the shoes," said Wills. "If a ball club wets down an infield to hamper the faster men in the league, nobody says that's illegal. I'm just trying to help myself."

Wills, Pittsburgh Pirate third baseman, stole a record 104 bases in 1962 while playing with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

He said Ron Fairly of Los Angeles wears the same type.

Wills disagreed with some people who said the spikes on the new-style shoes are dangerous.

"The end of the spike is blunt," he said. "The other type spike has sharper ends. Besides nobody in baseball purposely tries to spike another fellow."

General Manager Joe L. Brown of Pittsburgh said he told Wills not to let Giles' order bother him.

"I reminded Maury that he didn't need any special shoes... in 1962," said Brown. "I don't blame a man for trying something new, but when a rule is made we just have to abide by it."

Wills said he'll change to the conventional baseball shoes in the next few days. He has to make the switch by April 11.

FLINT, MICH. -- Buick Motor Division today announced the addition of a new model to its 1967 line, the GS 340 Sport Coupe.

The GS 340 is a distinctive new performer, featuring a high performance engine and a 115 inch wheelbase chassis, with a number of individual styling features.

Robert L. Kessler, Buick's general manager and vice president of General Motors, said the new model will be in dealer showrooms April 4.

The GS 340 comes in two body colors -- platinum mist and arctic white, and its styling features include flaming red hood scoops, red rallye wheels with deep chrome trim rings, wheel opening molds, rallye stripes along the sides, and GS ornamentation on the grille, rear quarter and rear deck lid.

Performance of this model comes from the 340 cubic inch four-barrel V-8 engine, which develops 260 horsepower and 365 pounds feet of usable torque. Inside, the GS 340 has all-vinyl black bench interior, deluxe steering wheel, and carpeting on front and rear floor.

Standard transmission is Buick's three-speed manual, synchronized in all forward gears. The optional automatic transmission is Buick's two-speed superturbine. Completing the power train is a rugged Salisbury axle with a 3.23 performance gear ratio.

As an option, there is a "Rallye Road Control Package" consisting of a heavier rear stablizer bar, stiffer springs and shocks for improved cornering and handling, and 15 to 1 ratio power steering.

Yanks Caribbean Trip Unsuccessful

By RON RAPOPORT

The New York Yankees' recent Caribbean hop does not appear destined to go down as one of the more successful island excursions of all time.

For one thing, the Yanks won only one of the three games they played in the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico over the weekend. For another, the medical after-effects of the trip were staggering.

Back at their spring training base in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Monday, the Yankees discovered that outfielder Lou Clinton and infielder Charley Smith were lost for up to three weeks because of injuries suffered in the islands.

X rays showed that Clinton, hit by a pitch, had fractured a thumb and Smith had suffered a shoulder separation when he dove after a line drive.

The Yankees picked up John Kennedy in a trade with Los Angeles and named him their starting shortstop. Pitcher Jack Cullen, outfielder - first baseman John Miller and about $25,000 went to the Dodgers, who also got infielder - outfielder Roy White on a one - year loan for their Spokane farm club.

The Yankees lost to Washington 7-2 Monday night as Jim Bouton was cuffed for six hits, five walks and commited a wild pitch. Dick Howser also made two errors, leading to more Washington runs.

Willie Stargell's pinch hit two - run homer with two out in the ninth, send the Pirates to a 4-2 triumph over Kansas City. Bob Veale turned in a strong pitching job, giving up just one run in eight innings.

Juan Marichal gave up just two hits in six innings and Bill Sorrell singled in the winning run in the 11th inning for a 5-4 San Francisco victory over Cleveland. Five straight walks in the ninth by Steve Bailey allowed the Giants to tie the score.

Jack Hamilton and Bill Denehy combined to limit the Chicago White Sox to two hits and the New York Mets won 4-1. The Mets scored three times in the first inning, which was highlighted by doubles by Cleon Jones and Johnny Lewis.

Rico Carty drove in two runs with a double in the sixth inning, lifting Atlanta to a 2-1 decision over Philadelphia. Deron Johnson drove in four runs with two singles and a double, powering Cincinnati to a 6-4 triumph over Detroit.

Orlando Cepeda drove in a run and scored two others and Mike Shannon had three hits as St. Louis pounded Minnesota 6-1. Harmon Killebrew hit his seventh home run of the spring for the Twins. Ted Savage connected for the Cardinals.

An error by shortstop Lee Bales in the fifth inning allowed the tie-breaking run to cross the plate and Los Angeles beat Houston 4-2.

Court Injunction May Be Sought By Detroit Promoters

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit boxing promoter threatened to seek a court injunction today to prevent heavyweight champion Cassius Clay from defending his title against Floyd Patterson in Las Vegas, Nev.

Mrs. Jean Wilson, head of E and J Sports Club, said the club's attorney, Eddie D. Smith, would ask federal court today to stop the fight from being held anywhere but in Detroit.

Clay, 25, and Patterson 32, the former heavyweight champion, had been negotiating with E and J to stage the fight in Detroit.

But an authoritative source told The Associated Press Monday night that negotiations fell through and Clay's managers decided to take the bout to Las Vegas.

"We feel that there is some sort of conspiracy," said Mrs. Wilson. "We feel that Mr. Muhammad Ali's camp interfered with our completing a contract with Mr. Patterson."

Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, his Muslim name, stopped Patterson in 12 rounds at Las Vegas, Nov. 22, 1965. Clay's last title defense was March 22 when he knocked out Zora Folley in the seventh round at Madison Square Garden in New York.

It would be Clay's 10th title defense and his eighth in the last 13 months.

Hawks Are Confident; Must Win At Home

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The player-coach of the St. Louis Hawks is looking for a tighter defense and a lift from a partisan crowd as he brings his team home for the third contest in the Western Division playoffs against San Francisco.

The Warriors jumped to a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven National Basketball Association series, defeating the Hawks by narrow margins on the West Coast.

In the second game in San Francisco the Warriors beat the Hawks 143-136 to establish a scoring record for a playoff game.

"We're confident we can win the whole thing if we pick up on our defense," Hawks Coach Rickie Guerin said. "These games Wednesday and Saturday are must games for us."

Guerin said the team has had plenty of rest and should be sharp for the game Wednesday.

"The building, the fans," Guerin commented, "they're all an influence on the game. Ninety per cent of the fans will be cheering for us and these professionals respond to that stuff, believe it or not."

One of the big targets for the Hawks' tighter defense will be San Francisco's Rick Barry who is winging with a 42.5 points per game average after the first two games. From the free throw line he has connected on all 15 shots. Barry scored 47 points against the Hawks in the second game.

If St. Louis places too much emphasis on stopping Barry, trouble may come from another source. Nate Thurmond has connected on 72.7 per cent of his shots from the field in posting his two-game average of 18.7 points.

Four other San Francisco players also are hitting on better than 50 per cent of their shots from the field, leaving little latitude for double teaming by St. Louis.

The Hawks' coach said St. Louis will have to move back quickly Wednesday to prevent the easy fast break shots, which accounted for the high accuracy of the Warriors in the earlier contests.

In Saturday's April Fool edition of the Southeast Missouri State College newspaper "The Capaha Error" a few sports notes were noticed.

REMEMBER . . ..These are only April fools' stories!

The one that attracted most attention was "UCLA Court Star Transfers to Cape."

It read. . . "Lou Alcindor, 7 foot, one and three eights inch center from UCLA today announced that he was transferring at the end of this semester to Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau.

Alcindor, who led his team to a 30-0 season and the NCAA championship said that he did not like the people at UCLA."

We wonder if that was just a joke or was it one of Coach Parsley's wishes. . . we wonder!

The other attraction on the front page was. . . head "Cape State Indians to take over for Illinois in big ten reshuffle soon".

Excerpts from the article follow: Illinois' decision to drop out of the Big Ten conference rather than fire the three coaches for operating a slush fund has given Big Ten officials a chance to do what they say has been uppermost in their minds for several years.

The Big Ten will invite Southeast Missouri State College of Cape Girardeau to participate in the Big Ten in all the sports which are part of the conference.

Big Ten executive coordinator Grace Binton said last week: "We have been considering Southeast Missouri in our possible extension plans for the Big Ten, and, while we are unhappy to lose Illinois, the addition of Southeast will be a great asset to the conference."

We wonder who believed those stores. . .They sound so real... one could believe or hope for the best.

By the way. . . the real name of the paper is the Capaha Arrow not the error. . . someone must have made an error in thinking those things up. . .

Coach Everett Shelton's tall boys from the West didn't quite prove his point Saturday that those who pick the All-Americas pay more attention to shooting ability than to defensive strength.

The East squad, led by Sonny Dove of St. John's, took a 102-93 victory over the Sacramento State coach's taller Western stars, hitting 40 of 90 shots for 44.4 per cent, while the West hit 35 of 90 shots for 38.9 per cent.

The West, which averaged 1-1/2 inches taller than the East, collected only one more rebound. The East included second-team All-Americas Bob Verga of Duke, Ron Widby of Tennessee, Bob Lloyd of Rutgers and Louie Dampier of Kentucky.

Dove, who was named Star of Stars in the game, hit 13 of 21 field goal attempts for a total 26 points and grabbed 15 rebounds.

31 Lettermen Returning For Grid Season

JONESBORO, Ark. -- Arkansas State University will have what is perhaps the finest football team in the school's history, but at the same time the 1967 grid schedule is by far the school's roughest ever.

The Indians will have 31 lettermen returning from last year's 7-2 team which finished sixth among college division teams in one wire service poll.

Head Coach Bennie Ellender returns to lead the Tribe's grid fortunes for the fifth season. He was District Seven College Division coach of the year in 1966.

The Indians will push Southland Conference co-champions Lamar Tech and Arlington State in hopes of gaining their first football crown since the league was formed. But Lamar and Arlington also return several key players, as do Abilene Christian and Trinity U., the other two members of the SLC.

The Tribe's offensive line will be anchored by 6-5, 240-pound center Ron Worthen, an All-SlC performer. Gerald Jumper (190), an All-SLC end, will easily break all receiving records. Throwing the aerials to Jumper will be Tim Keane (190), who along with fullback Steve Gankiewicz give the Tribe two All-SLC picks in the backfield. Gankiewicz, who weighs only 185 pounds, set a conference scoring record last season with 13 touchdowns.

Defensively, the Indians are led by three All-SLC players. They are safety Dick Ritchey (190), a two-time selection, linebacker Bill Bergey (228) and end Steve Puryear (200).

Other holdover lettermen include halfback Benny Winford (185), defensive ends Pete Garris (185) and Rick McBride (200), tackles Dwain Glenn (218) and David Young (214), guard Manuel Montes (215), monster man Gwin Wood (182) and defensive back Gary Hankins (185).

The Indians' top sophomore may turn out to be big Mike Hinrichs, a 6-6, 245-pound tackle. Hinrichs was pressed into starting duty last season in his first year as a college player.

Other top returning sophomores include defensive linemen Dan Buckley (215), Charles Hinrichs (215) and Eugene Thompson (219), defensive back Orley Massena (170), linebackers David Wallas (185) and W. A. Young (200), end Virgil Peyton (218) and offensive tackle Jackie Smith (217). All were starters or part - time starters last season as redshirt freshmen.

Also returning as sophomore lettermen are end Dennis Zolper (190), guard Mike Christal (225), halfbacks Larry Maxwell (180) and Denny Burns (195), kicking specialists Mike Everett (193) and Gary Elliott (175) and punter Kevin McClelland (175).

The schedule is:
Sept. 23 - Western Michigan
Sept. 30 - at Tennessee Tech
Oct. 7 - The Citadel at Little Rock
Oct. 14 - at Louisiana Tech
Oct. 21 - Abilene Christian (Homecoming)
Oct. 28 - at Lamar Tech
Nov. 4 - U. of SW Louisiana

Announcing Buick's new GS-340.

(The minipriced GS-400.)

If you read the papers, you know how great our now-famous GS-400 is. (It's the one in the background.)

And you also know you don't get a GS-400 for peanuts. It's a great car. But it's just a little rich for some people.

So we set to work and designed the GS-340. It has a smaller engine (but the whole machine weighs less). Its interior is clean and simple and tasteful. And it has its own ornamentation, paint job (see the rally stripe and hood scoops?), and, of course, all the GM safety features.

So now you have a car that costs less than the GS-400, but one with its own special brand of excitement.

How can you beat that kind of a combination?

Dogs Seek Third Straight

Jackson high school will furnish the opposition as the Sikeston Bulldogs baseball team invades Legion Park for its third game of the young season tomorrow afternoon. Game time is 4 p.m.

The Dogs now hold a 2-0 record. The Indians are shooting for their first win after suffering a loss to St. Genevieve last Thursday 11-6.

Sikeston has defeated Chaffee and Oran, two of the better clubs in the area.

Coach Lou Weiss of the Indians says that he expects his team to be shallow this season. He has six sophomores starting and only one returning starter, junior Bill Lewis, who is a one year letterman, plays in the outfield and pitches.

For the Bulldogs, Coach Hal Lane sees steady improvement for the Dogs and thinks the boys are doing real well for the season to be so young.

No changes are expected to be made in the Sikeston lineup except they will be playing for the next two or three weeks without the services of Bruce Farris, due to injuries of his right hand. Farris, only a sophomore was one of the Dogs hopefuls for a starting position. Coach Lane's squad could use his batting power and his fielding and pitching.

Right hander, Rudy Manley, is scheduled to take the mound for the Dogs. Francis Monroe or Joe Lowes will throw for Jackson.

Yanks Caribbean Trip Unsuccessful

By RON RAPOPORT

The New York Yankees' recent Caribbean hop does not appear destined to go down as one of the more successful island excursions of all time.

For one thing, the Yanks won only one of the three games they played in the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico over the weekend. For another, the medical after-effects of the trip were staggering.

Back at their spring training base in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Monday, the Yankees discovered that outfielder Lou Clinton and infielder Charley Smith were lost for up to three weeks because of injuries suffered in the islands.

X rays showed that Clinton, hit by a pitch, had fractured a thumb and Smith had suffered a shoulder separation when he dove after a line drive.

The Yankees picked up John Kennedy in a trade with Los Angeles and named him their starting shortstop. Pitcher Jack Cullen, outfielder - first baseman John Miller and about $25,000 went to the Dodgers, who also got infielder - outfielder Roy White on a one - year loan for their Spokane farm club.

The Yankees lost to Washington 7-2 Monday night as Jim Bouton was cuffed for six hits, five walks and commited a wild pitch. Dick Howser also made two errors, leading to more Washington runs.

Willie Stargell's pinch hit two - run homer with two out in the ninth, send the Pirates to a 4-2 triumph over Kansas City. Bob Veale turned in a strong pitching job, giving up just one run in eight innings.

Juan Marichal gave up just two hits in six innings and Bill Sorrell singled in the winning run in the 11th inning for a 5-4 San Francisco victory over Cleveland. Five straight walks in the ninth by Steve Bailey allowed the Giants to tie the score.

Jack Hamilton and Bill Denehy combined to limit the Chicago White Sox to two hits and the New York Mets won 4-1. The Mets scored three times in the first inning, which was highlighted by doubles by Cleon Jones and Johnny Lewis.

Rico Carty drove in two runs with a double in the sixth inning, lifting Atlanta to a 2-1 decision over Philadelphia. Deron Johnson drove in four runs with two singles and a double, powering Cincinnati to a 6-4 triumph over Detroit.

Orlando Cepeda drove in a run and scored two others and Mike Shannon had three hits as St. Louis pounded Minnesota 6-1. Harmon Killebrew hit his seventh home run of the spring for the Twins. Ted Savage connected for the Cardinals.

An error by shortstop Lee Bales in the fifth inning allowed the tie-breaking run to cross the plate and Los Angeles beat Houston 4-2.

Court Injunction May Be Sought By Detroit Promoters

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit boxing promoter threatened to seek a court injunction today to prevent heavyweight champion Cassius Clay from defending his title against Floyd Patterson in Las Vegas, Nev.

Mrs. Jean Wilson, head of E and J Sports Club, said the club's attorney, Eddie D. Smith, would ask federal court today to stop the fight from being held anywhere but in Detroit.

Clay, 25, and Patterson 32, the former heavyweight champion, had been negotiating with E and J to stage the fight in Detroit.

But an authoriative source told The Associated Press Monday night that negotiations fell through and Clay's managers decided to take the bout to Las Vegas.

"We feel that there is some sort of conspiracy," said Mrs. Wilson. "We feel that Mr. Muhammad Ali's camp interfered with our completing a contract with Mr. Patterson."

Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, his Muslim name, stopped Patterson in 12 rounds at Las Vegas, Nov. 22, 1965. Clay's last title defense was March 22 when he knocked out Zora Folley in the seventh round at Madison Square Garden in New York.

It would be Clay's 10th title defense and his eighth in the last 13 months.

Wills' Shoes Ruled Illegal

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Maury Wills, an acknowledged base thief, has been notified his new-style baseball shoes are illegal.

Warren Giles, National League president, ordered Wills, who has stolen nine bases in nine tries this spring, to change his shoes by opening day.

Giles' order, revealed Monday, did not cite any reasons.

Wills changed this spring to shoes that resemble track shoes. The traditional baseball shoe's spikes are triangular, but on Wills' new shoes the spikes are straight and blunt.

"I don't see anything wrong with the shoes," said Wills. "If a ball club wets down an infield to hamper the faster men in the league, nobody says that's illegal. I'm just trying to help myself."

Wills, Pittsburgh Pirate third baseman, stole a record 104 bases in 1962 while playing with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

He said Ron Fairly of Los Angeles wears the same type.

Wills disagreed with some people who said the spikes on the new-style shoes are dangerous.

"The end of the spike is blunt," he said. "The other type spike has sharper ends. Besides nobody in baseball purposely tries to spike another fellow."

General Manager Joe L. Brown of Pittsburgh said he told Wills not to let Giles' order bother him.

"I reminded Maury that he didn't need any special shoes... in 1962," said Brown. "I don't blame a man for trying something new, but when a rule is made we just have to abide by it."

Wills said he'll change to the conventional baseball shoes in the next few days. He has to make the switch by April 11.

Announcing Buick's new GS-340.
(The minipriced GS-400.)

If you read the papers, you know how great our now-famous GS-400 is. (It's the one in the background.)

And you also know you don't get a GS-400 for peanuts. It's a great car. But it's just a little rich for some people.

So we set to work and designed the GS-340. It has a smaller engine (but the whole machine weighs less). Its interior is clean and simple and tasteful. And it has its own ornamentation, paint job (see the rally stripe and hood scoops?), and, of course, all the GM safety features.

So now you have a car that costs less than the GS-400, but one with its own special brand of excitement.

How can you beat that kind of a combination?

West-East German Hostility Thawing

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German government has begun a new policy of not being beastly to the Communist rulers of 17 million Germans east of the Elbe River.

It remains to be seen whether the policy will pay off.

The new Bonn government has no more affection than its predecessors had for Communist leader Walter Ulbricht. His Lenin-like beard, his Stalin-like policy and his responsibility for the Berlin wall have long made him the man West German politicians love to hate.

"It's not a question of being nice to people who aren't so nice themselves," explained Willy Brandt, the foreign minister. But Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's men believe that the way to reunify Germany is to be friendlier with the Communist powers that have so far prevented it. There has been a lot of political double talk in recent speeches, however.

One West German editorialist spoke of "beating around the bush." Editors of the news weekly Der Spiegel accused Kiesinger in an interview of giving a "sphinx-like" answer on the issue. "You have to keep a lot of options open in politics," Kiesinger replied.

One editor suggested that a majority of legislators secretly favor official recognition of Ulbricht's government and of its border with Poland. These are major Communist demands on West Germany, and many West Germans would consider it treasonable to yield.

Kiesinger denied any such majority exists.

Kiesinger offers some concessions to Ulbricht's government. One that does not sound like much, but which carries a heavy emotional charge in Germany, is the fact that he sometimes refers to it as the DDR. These are the initials for German (Deutsche) Democratic Republic, its official title.

A few months ago anyone who used those initials without quotation marks ran the risk of being called a Communist or fellow traveler.

The official initials recognized in Bonn are SBZ for Soviet Occupied Zone. The expression raises the hackles of East Germans, Communist or not.

Both Kiesinger and Brandt have backed away from the claim of previous Bonn governments to "the exclusive right of representation" for all Germans in world affairs. Brandt said at one news conference that this was not a right but a simple duty to speak up for those who had no freely elected government to speak for them.

Ulbricht has been traveling around Eastern Europe, trying to dissuade other Communist governments from following Romania in setting up diplomatic relations with Bonn. His government has created a new East German citizenship, offensive to West Germans who believe that all Germans should have the same citizenship.

Small Farm Idea Revived In Bootheel

CARUTHERSVILLE - In an effort to revive the small farm idea in Pemiscot county and introduce vegetable crops into this area, plans are being made for at least 200 acres of okra to be grown near here under the auspices of a local co-operative.

There are two unique aspects to this project - it is the first major effort in truck farming for Pemiscot County, and at the same time is a small scale "war on poverty" without government funds.

The co-operative is to be made up of about 50 impoverished families. They will each be responsible for a small plot, probably in the neighborhood of four acres, on which the okra will be grown.

The 200 acres has been leased from Alonzo P. Kersey Jr., presiding judge of the county court. A total of $20,000 to lease the land, buy the seed, and cover other expenses has been loaned to the co-operative by an unnamed Missouri industry. It will be repaid when the crop is harvested.

The Rev. Bill Chapman of Kennett, an Episcopal minister active in numerous poverty programs, has spearheaded the effort to get the project underway. Last year he worked with an experimental crop of green vegetables on a much smaller scale in the area of Gobler.

A processing firm in Tennessee has already signed a contract with the co-operative to pay five cents per pound for the okra crop. John M. Craddock of the Winter Garden Freezer Company said Tuesday that the 200 acres should gross at least $100,000 off the okra crop.

Craddock said his firm chose okra because it is the least vulnerable vegetable crop in regards to extreme weather conditions, is bothered less by insects, and quality is not too much of a problem.

The processors will set up a receiving station on the 200 acres leased by the co-operative. Craddock's firm has opened the offer for okra contracts to other small farmers in the area who have found other Bootheel crops not too profitable. He says most farmers will gross more than $500 per acre off the okra.

Neither Chapman nor Craddock considers this an effort to replace the two major crops, cotton and soybeans, for large farmers - at least not at the present. State and federal agencies are studying such a potential.

However, the current project is aimed at offering some security to the small farmer-a disappearing breed in cotton country.

To Smoke Or Not To Smoke

(fourth of four articles)

"Are You Smoking More and Enjoying it Less? Then Stop! "Brighten Up Your Taste. Quit Smoking."

"For That Springtime Taste.. Stop Smoking."

The schoolchildren who penned these parodies as part of a classroom project have the right idea, the Missouri Heart Association agrees, in hope that this sentiment will snowball into teenage trend with more staying power than hula hoops and Beatle haircuts.

It takes a lot more than a passing fad to undo the damage that the smoking habit can do to a whole generation of youngsters now growing up. According to the American Public Health Association, approximately one million school-age children now alive are doomed to die of lung cancer if current teenage smoking patterns are not reversed. Deaths from premature heart attacks aggravated by smoking would more than double the toll.

All studies of the harmful consequences of smoking point to the teens as the critical years. Adults who started smoking at the earliest ages have the highest death rates, as well as the highest incidence of circulatory and respiratory diseases associated with cigarette smoking.

It is not surprising, then, that smoking among teenagers today is a cause for concern to physicians and teachers, as it should be to parents. One authoritative estimate places one high school student in three as a regular cigarette smoker. Children also appear to be taking up smoking at a much younger age than they used to, many starting as early as the 5th or 6th grade.

A recent study in Newton, Massachusetts, showed that smoking mothers of high school students started the habit at an average age of 22; their daughters started at 12 1/2. Smoking fathers had started at 18; their sons at 11 1/2.

Teenage smokers have one advantage over their elders, doctors agree. It is easier for them to quit now, before their habit becomes too stubbornly fixed, than it is for veteran smokers to break the pattern of an adult lifetime.

Yet it is the veterans - the parents - who must help turn the tables in the interests of their children's health. For the surveys reveal another significant relationship in the teenage smoking picture; young people whose parents smoke are more apt to smoke than youngsters from non-smoking families.

Thus, for their children's sake, as well as their own, adults should make the effort to stop smoking cigarettes. The rewards, the Missouri Heart Association declares, will be quickly apparent to fathers and sons, mothers and daughters.

MISSOURI MAY FACE TAXRAISE IN 1969

JEFFERSON CITY - Missouri may face a tax raise as early as 1969, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said in an interview last week - but added that the state may receive financial relief in the form of "bloc grants" from the federal government within the near future.

Hearnes said that the need for additional state income could be critical in the 1969-71 period - which would be the beginning of the next governor's term.

Missouri presently seems to be proud of its low taxes - the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development ran an ad a month ago in a national magazine with the headline - "We're Proud to Be Last," indicating Missouri's position in tax rates charged its citizens, and designed to lure industry to Missouri.

The governor said he felt it was remarkable what the state has been able to do with the relatively low amount of income available - terming his own administration a "catch-up administration" which has had to come from behind in mental health, education and other services to achieve at least equal status with other states. In addition, he cited Missouri as a leader in mental health during the past three years.

But the governor has not been hesitant to point out that the state could use more money.

Raising taxes can be political suicide. Former Gov. John M. Dalton alone bore the criticism for raising the state sales tax from two to three cents - a far-sighted move which has kept state services from plumeting altogether.

But Gov. Hearnes feels that the success of a proposed tax raise depends on the man - he must go to the people and sell them on the need for more taxes - he said.

To help lift the political and financial burden from the states who need more money - namely Missouri - Gov. Hearnes has urged for several months the adoption of the so-called "Heller Plan" of rebating taxes by the federal government.

Under this plan, Congress would allocate percentages of federal tax money back to state governments with "no strings attached." That is, states would not have to spend the money on specific programs, as the "grant-in-aid" programs, now used by the federal government, require.

Hearnes said that most of the governors at the recent Governors' Conference in Washington, D.C., indicated that this plan could not be implemented until the Viet Nam conflict is ended, but that President Johnson indicated "bloc grants" of money to the states might be available immediately, within the present session of Congress.

Such grants would involve giving money to states under the heading of education or public health, for example, with no "strings" attached as to how to use the money within these areas.

Hearnes' major criticism of federal aid has been of the grant-in-aid programs which he says force the states to adopt federal programs or lose programs they are already giving to their citizens.

SENATORS 'PRESSURED' ON TRUTH IN LENDING

A large lobbying campaign is being waged against a Senate bill which would require all money lenders in the state to proclaim the actual interest being charged on a loan to bold letters on the front of the loan.

Sen. Earl Blackwell (D-Hillsboro) introduced the bill in the Senate and has managed to get it approved by a Senate committee and ready for floor debate, but said that a tremendous amount of work is being done to kill the measure.

Institutions ranging from banks and loan associations to retailers are urging Senators to kill the bill, Blackwell said.

The retailers would be affected by a stipulation requiring interest charged on revolving charge accounts be stated to the customer, as it would if he were applying for a loan.

Blackwell said the loan and banking institutions are claiming the bill would make if difficult and almost impossible to calculate actual interest - but he dismisses this as so much "bunk," since tables could be prepared as soon as such a bill is passed.

The interest rate which a borrower generally sees on a loan form and advertised in the newspapers is the basic interest figure - for example - 8 per cent, which is actually compounded semi-annually and amounts to often more than 16 per cent actual interest paid.

The bill would require that the full interest rate be explained to the customer in writing on the loan form.

Loan associations avoid competition, Blackwell said, on small loans by using monthly interest rates, such as 2.218 per cent per month. Thus, when another loan company advertises loans for only 2.0 per cent interest, the borrower cannot see a great difference. However, if the full annual rate were shown, he could see the difference between 14 per cent and 18 per cent. Blackwell said that by showing the full rate, competition will increase where it has been suppressed in the past by hiding the rates in small monthly figures - and with the competition will come eventually lower rates to the consumer.

"Luck" is a very good word, if you put a P before it.

The test of every religious, political, or educational system is the man it forms.

West-East German Hostility Thawing

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German government has begun a new policy of not being beastly to the Communist rulers of 17 million Germans east of the Elbe River.

It remains to be seen whether the policy will pay off.

The new Bonn government has no more affection than its predecessors had for Communist leader Walter Ulbricht. His Lenin-like beard, his Stalin-like policy and his responsibility for the Berlin wall have long made him the man West German politicians love to hate.

"It's not a question of being nice to people who aren't so nice themselves," explained Willy Brandt, the foreign minister. But Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's men believe that the way to reunify Germany is to be friendlier with the Communist powers that have so far prevented it. There has been a lot of political double talk in recent speeches, however.

One West German editorialist spoke of "beating around the bush." Editors of the news weekly Der Spiegel accused Kiesinger in an interview of giving a "sphinx-like" answer on the issue. "You have to keep a lot of options open in politics," Kiesinger replied.

One editor suggested that a majority of legislators secretly favor official recognition of Ulbricht's government and of its border with Poland. These are major Communist demands on West Germany, and many West Germans would consider it treasonable to yield.

Kiesinger denied any such majority exists.

Kiesinger offers some concessions to Ulbricht's government. One that does not sound like much, but which carries a heavy emotional charge in Germany, is the fact that he sometimes refers to it as the DDR. These are the initials for German (Deutsche) Democratic Republic, its official title.

A few months ago anyone who used those initials without quotation marks ran the risk of being called a Communist or fellow traveler.

The official initials recognized in Bonn are SBZ for Soviet Occupied Zone. The expression raises the hackles of East Germans, Communist or not.

Both Kiesinger and Brandt have backed away from the claim of previous Bonn governments to "the exclusive right of representation" for all Germans in world affairs. Brandt said at one news conference that this was not a right but a simple duty to speak up for those who had no freely elected government to speak for them.

Ulbricht has been traveling around Eastern Europe, trying to dissuade other Communist governments from following Romania in setting up diplomatic relations with Bonn. His government has created a new East German citizenship, offensive to West Germans who believe that all Germans should have the same citizenship.

Small Farm Idea Revived In Bootheel

CARUTHERSVILLE - In an effort to revive the small farm idea in Pemiscot county and introduce vegetable crops into this area, plans are being made for at least 200 acres of okra to be grown near here under the auspices of a local co-operative.

There are two unique aspects to this project - it is the first major effort in truck farming for Pemiscot County, and at the same time is a small scale "war on poverty" without government funds.

The co-operative is to be made up of about 50 impoverished families. They will each be responsible for a small plot, probably in the neighborhood of four acres, on which the okra will be grown.

The 200 acres has been leased from Alonzo P. Kersey Jr., presiding judge of the county court. A total of $20,000 to lease the land, buy the seed, and cover other expenses has been loaned to the co-operative by an unnamed Missouri industry. It will be repaid when the crop is harvested.

The Rev. Bill Chapman of Kennett, an Episcopal minister active in numerous poverty programs, has spearheaded the effort to get the project underway. Last year he worked with an experimental crop of green vegetables on a much smaller scale in the area of Gobler.

A processing firm in Tennessee has already signed a contract with the co-operative to pay five cents per pound for the okra crop. John M. Craddock of the Winter Garden Freezer Company said Tuesday that the 200 acres should gross at least $100,000 off the okra crop.

Craddock said his firm chose okra because it is the least vulnerable vegetable crop in regards to extreme weather conditions, is bothered less by insects, and quality is not too much of a problem.

The processors will set up a receiving station on the 200 acres leased by the co-operative. Craddock's firm has opened the offer for okra contracts to other small farmers in the area who have found other Bootheel crops not too profitable. He says most farmers will gross more than $500 per acre off the okra.

Neither Chapman nor Craddock considers this an effort to replace the two major crops, cotton and soybeans, for large farmers - at least not at the present. State and federal agencies are studying such a potential.

However, the current project is aimed at offering some security to the small farmer-a disappearing breed in cotton country.

To Smoke Or Not To Smoke

(fourth of four articles)

"Are You Smoking More and Enjoying it Less? Then Stop! "Brighten Up Your Taste. Quit Smoking."

"For That Springtime Taste.. Stop Smoking."

The schoolchildren who penned these parodies as part of a classroom project have the right idea, the Missouri Heart Association agrees, in hope that this sentiment will snowball into teenage trend with more staying power than hula hoops and Beatle haircuts.

It takes a lot more than a passing fad to undo the damage that the smoking habit can do to a whole generation of youngsters now growing up. According to the American Public Health Association, approximately one million school-age children now alive are doomed to die of lung cancer if current teenage smoking patterns are not reversed. Deaths from premature heart attacks aggravated by smoking would more than double the toll.

All studies of the harmful consequences of smoking point to the teens as the critical years. Adults who started smoking at the earliest ages have the highest death rates, as well as the highest incidence of circulatory and respiratory diseases associated with cigarette smoking.

It is not surprising, then, that smoking among teenagers today is a cause for concern to physicians and teachers, as it should be to parents. One authoritative estimate places one high school student in three as a regular cigarette smoker. Children also appear to be taking up smoking at a much younger age than they used to, many starting as early as the 5th or 6th grade.

A recent study in Newton, Massachusetts, showed that smoking mothers of high school students started the habit at an average age of 22; their daughters started at 12 1/2. Smoking fathers had started at 18; their sons at 11 1/2.

Teenage smokers have one advantage over their elders, doctors agree. It is easier for them to quit now, before their habit becomes too stubbornly fixed, than it is for veteran smokers to break the pattern of an adult lifetime.

Yet it is the veterans - the parents - who must help turn the tables in the interests of their children's health. For the surveys reveal another significant relationship in the teenage smoking picture; young people whose parents smoke are more apt to smoke than youngsters from non-smoking families.

Thus, for their children's sake, as well as their own, adults should make the effort to stop smoking cigarettes. The rewards, the Missouri Heart Association declares, will be quickly apparent to fathers and sons, mothers and daughters.

MISSOURI MAY FACE TAXRAISE IN 1969

JEFFERSON CITY - Missouri may face a tax raise as early as 1969, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said in an interview last week - but added that the state may receive financial relief in the form of "bloc grants" from the federal government within the near future.

Hearnes said that the need for additional state income could be critical in the 1969-71 period - which would be the beginning of the next governor's term.

Missouri presently seems to be proud of its low taxes - the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development ran an ad a month ago in a national magazine with the headline - "We're Proud to Be Last," indicating Missouri's position in tax rates charged its citizens, and designed to lure industry to Missouri.

The governor said he felt it was remarkable what the state has been able to do with the relatively low amount of income available - terming his own administration a "catch-up administration" which has had to come from behind in mental health, education and other services to achieve at least equal status with other states. In addition, he cited Missouri as a leader in mental health during the past three years.

But the governor has not been hesitant to point out that the state could use more money.

Raising taxes can be political suicide. Former Gov. John M. Dalton alone bore the criticism for raising the state sales tax from two to three cents - a far-sighted move which has kept state services from plumeting altogether.

But Gov. Hearnes feels that the success of a proposed tax raise depends on the man - he must go to the people and sell them on the need for more taxes - he said.

To help lift the political and financial burden from the states who need more money - namely Missouri - Gov. Hearnes has urged for several months the adoption of the so-called "Heller Plan" of rebating taxes by the federal government.

Under this plan, Congress would allocate percentages of federal tax money back to state governments with "no strings attached." That is, states would not have to spend the money on specific programs, as the "grant-in-aid" programs, now used by the federal government, require.

Hearnes said that most of the governors at the recent Governors' Conference in Washington, D.C., indicated that this plan could not be implemented until the Viet Nam conflict is ended, but that President Johnson indicated "bloc grants" of money to the states might be available immediately, within the present session of Congress.

Such grants would involve giving money to states under the heading of education or public health, for example, with no "strings" attached as to how to use the money within these areas.

Hearnes' major criticism of federal aid has been of the grant-in-aid programs which he says force the states to adopt federal programs or lose programs they are already giving to their citizens.

SENATORS 'PRESSURED' ON TRUTH IN LENDING

A large lobbying campaign is being waged against a Senate bill which would require all money lenders in the state to proclaim the actual interest being charged on a loan to bold letters on the front of the loan.

Sen. Earl Blackwell (D-Hillsboro) introduced the bill in the Senate and has managed to get it approved by a Senate committee and ready for floor debate, but said that a tremendous amount of work is being done to kill the measure.

Institutions ranging from banks and loan associations to retailers are urging Senators to kill the bill, Blackwell said.

The retailers would be affected by a stipulation requiring interest charged on revolving charge accounts be stated to the customer, as it would if he were applying for a loan.

Blackwell said the loan and banking institutions are claiming the bill would make if difficult and almost impossible to calculate actual interest - but he dismisses this as so much "bunk," since tables could be prepared as soon as such a bill is passed.

The interest rate which a borrower generally sees on a loan form and advertised in the newspapers is the basic interest figure - for example - 8 per cent, which is actually compounded semi-annually and amounts to often more than 16 per cent actual interest paid.

The bill would require that the full interest rate be explained to the customer in writing on the loan form.

Loan associations avoid competition, Blackwell said, on small loans by using monthly interest rates, such as 2.218 per cent per month. Thus, when another loan company advertises loans for only 2.0 per cent interest, the borrower cannot see a great difference. However, if the full annual rate were shown, he could see the difference between 14 per cent and 18 per cent. Blackwell said that by showing the full rate, competition will increase where it has been suppressed in the past by hiding the rates in small monthly figures - and with the competition will come eventually lower rates to the consumer.

"Luck" is a very good word, if you put a P before it.

The test of every religious, political, or educational system is the man it forms.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will let me use your column to spread a message that is vital to the health and lives of American children.

Measles is a dangerous disease. It can cause mental retardation, blindness, deafness and death. In this day and age no child needs to have measles. In 1963 a sure-fire vaccine was discovered and one innoculation - yes, I said ONE innoculation - can protect a child throughout his entire life.

The Public Health Service has provided enough vaccine to wipe out the disease in a single year. Children can get free shots at most county and city health departments if they do not have access to regular care from a family physician. Every child who has reached his first birthday is old enough to obtain this lifetime protection.

Please, Ann Landers, print this plea and urge parents to heed it. - Glen W. Snyder, Asst. Director, Oregon Immunization Program

Dear Glen Snyder: Thank you for your letter. And now I would like to put a question to American parents:

What do you have planned within the next 24 hours that is more important than protecting your child against potential blindness, deafness, mental retardation or death? Call your doctor or the Health Department and make an appointment.

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago I became pregnant. Jason and I are both 17. In our state parents must sign for both parties if they are under 18 years of age.

I was willing to ask my parents but Jason refused to ask his. He said he just couldn't face the shame. I nearly went out of my mind with worry. I even considered killing myself. Finally I told Jason that if he wouldn't ask his parents to sign, I would go to them. We got into a terrible argument and I ended up nauseated and with a splitting headache. That night I had a miscarriage. It was early enough so that I didn't have to go to a doctor so my folks never did find out that I was pregnant.

Now I feel that Jason should marry me just in case something happens in the future. When two people are in love it is impossible to stay away from each other and I know very well that as soon as Jason gets over the scare we will start in where we left off. He is like very cool to the idea of marriage and I need to know what to do to hold him. - CONSTANTINE

Dear Con: If you considering "starting in where you left off," I can tell you that history will probably repeat itself - unless Jason gets smart and find himself another girl, which I hope he does for your sake as well as his.

Confidential to Trusting Fool: From the evidence you have presented in your letter, I would say he has done an amazing job of bamboozling everybody. I wouldn't be surprised if the wool he has been pulling over your eyes is 50% cotton. Give him a nice, warm farewell handshake - then count your fingers.

What is love? How does it differ from sexual attraction? Read "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Send 35¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Effects of Strike Show Up on Screen

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK AP -- The strike of the television performers' union against the three major networks continued to plague the daytime and news shows, but did not affect the filmed series from the Hollywood studios.

Ed Sullivan's hour Sunday night was a rerun of recent vintage. But NBC's Frank McGee report was apparently forced by a shortage of suitable domestic picture stories to make his major subject a grisly feature showing Italian hunters shooting song birds - larks and gold finches -- in the name of sport.

ABC, shooting a basketball game in Boston, found itself with only one camera but struggled on in black and white. It seemed to this viewer that NBC's "College Bowl" was suffering, too, from some erratic camera work.

Hard-luck program of the entire weekend was NBC's special edition of "Meet the Press" Originally it had been scheduled for Sunday night to demonstrate how an interview could be conducted in color by satellite. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was to be in Washington, interviewed by five foreign newsmen in London. Then Mr. Humphrey was sent on his European tour and Secretary of State Dean Rusk was substituted. Came the AFTRA strike and Mr. Rusk cautiously pulled out and former Undersecretary of State George W. Ball — in Paris — was interviewed by the five newsmen in London.

NBC's "Experiment in Television" pretaped for broadcast Sunday afternoon was a most interesting demonstration of acting by a group of performers who communicated by sign language. The actors in this "Theatre of the Deaf," were most effective in scenes from "Hamlet," but also showed their versatility in a song and dance number from "Guys and Dolls."

The strike continues to upset the daytime schedules. Two new game shows are postponed — ABC's "One in a Million" and NBC's "Snap Judgment," both scheduled to start today.

ABC will return "Father Knows Best" to its schedule in place of "General Hospital."

ABC's fall schedule, announced over the weekend, confirmed previous reports that "Batman" will be reduced to a single 30-minute show next season and that lawyer F. Lee Bailey will be host on a weekly interview show, now called "Inside Out" but along "Person-to-Person" lines. The network also announced that Carol Channing and Debbie Reynolds have been signed for some specials next season.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE
By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE DETERMINED BOYFRIEND

Vera spent her vacation at a hotel where she alternated between slapping mosquitoes and Herman for getting fresh. A persistent fellow, Herman wanted to become Vera's boyfriend in the worst way but acted in the worst way and made little progress. Consequently, when Vera's vacation finally came to an end, Herman became desperate. After Vera had placed her baggage on the train for the trip home, Herman removed them to his car and insisted that he be allowed to drive her to where she lived.

Unable to convince Herman to put the bags back on the train, Vera reluctantly climbed into Herman's car and permitted him to drive her home. Immediately upon arriving, however, she sued him for false imprisonment.

"There were no bars on my car," was Herman's defense. "Vera could have gotten out of my car any time she so desired."

"That's not true," was Vera's answer. "He had my bags and wouldn't give them back. I had to go where they went. We were inseparable."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you find that Herman captured Vera when he captured her bags?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that it is false imprisonment to illegally prevent a person from going where they choose in the manner desired. In this case, concluded the judge, Herman indirectly prevented Vera from going home on the train by taking her personal belongings.

Council on Arts Growth Cited

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Council on the Arts reports more than 180 communities throughout the state are participating in its program.

Clark Mitze, director of the council made the report to the Senate appropriations committee Monday.

He said when the council was set up 18 months ago only four communities in the state had arts programs. The growth has been far beyond expectations.

The council contracts for symphonies, theater groups and art exhibits for individual communities and arranges programs for schools. He said educational programs have been shown to more than 100,000 students during the past year.

Mitze requested the cut that the House Appropriations Committee made of $50,000 be restored. The council's total request is for $300,000.

The committee also heard requests from the Inter-Agency Council on Outdoor Recreation, the State Supreme Court and the St. Louis and Kansas City courts of appeal.

How five little digits are bringing you closer to everyone you know

How long does it take a letter to travel from a man in Portland, Maine, to his grandmother in the Houston Medical Center? From a woman in Oklahoma City to her soldier son in Fort Bragg, North Carolina? From a girl at the University of Michigan to her parents in Smithtown, New York?

Maybe overnight. Maybe longer.

Because every letter must go through many post offices before it reaches its destination. And since the volume of mail keeps growing at every post office, each letter may wait a little longer to be sorted.

But now there's a new way to get the mail through faster—and bring you closer to everyone you know.

It starts with those five little digits you know as Zip Code. With Zip, postal workers can sort mail faster and route it more directly. With Zip, they will use modern electronic machines that "read" Zip numbers and sort mail fifteen times faster than ever before!

Many people use Zip Codes. But those who don't are holding up the mail for themselves and everyone else.

Add Zip Code to every mailing address—and to your return address, too. Then others can easily Zip their mail to you. When you don't know a Zip Code, call your post office or look it up in their Zip Directory.

Remember those five little digits. They're doing a big job.

HOW ZIP CODE WORKS

Suppose the Zip Code is 60635. The "6" says it goes to the Midwest. The "06" narrows it down to Chicago. The last two digits—"35"—pinpoint the local post office. This eliminates many handling procedures. The letter is sorted faster, and sent more directly to its destination.

Mail moves the country—ZIP CODE moves the mail!

What do you have planned within the next 24 hours that is more important than protecting your child against potential blindness, deafness, mental retardation or death? Call your doctor or the Health Department and make an appointment.

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago I became pregnant. Jason and I are both 17. In our state parents must sign for both parties if they are under 18 years of age.

I was willing to ask my parents but Jason refused to ask his. He said he just couldn't face the shame. I nearly went out of my mind with worry. I even considered killing myself. Finally I told Jason that if he wouldn't ask his parents to sign, I would go to them. We got into a terrible argument and I ended up nauseated and with a splitting headache. That night I had a miscarriage. It was early enough so that I didn't have to go to a doctor so my folks never did find out that I was pregnant.

Now I feel that Jason should marry me just in case something happens in the future. When two people are in love it is impossible to stay away from each other and I know very well that as soon as Jason gets over the scare we will start in where we left off. He is like very cool to the idea of marriage and I need to know what to do to hold him. - CONSTANTINE

Dear Con: If you considering "starting in where you left off," I can tell you that history will probably repeat itself - unless Jason gets smart and find himself another girl, which I hope he does for your sake as well as his.

Confidential to Trusting Fool: From the evidence you have presented in your letter, I would say he has done an amazing job of bamboozling everybody. I wouldn't be surprised if the wool he has been pulling over your eyes is 50% cotton. Give him a nice, warm farewell handshake - then count your fingers.

What is love? How does it differ from sexual attraction? Read "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Send 35¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Effects of Strike Show Up on Screen

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK AP -- The strike of the television performers' union against the three major networks continued to plague the daytime and news shows, but did not affect the filmed series from the Hollywood studios.

Ed Sullivan's hour Sunday night was a rerun of recent vintage. But NBC's Frank McGee report was apparently forced by a shortage of suitable domestic picture stories to make his major subject a grisly feature showing Italian hunters shooting song birds - larks and gold finches -- in the name of sport.

ABC, shooting a basketball game in Boston, found itself with only one camera but struggled on in black and white. It seemed to this viewer that NBC's "College Bowl" was suffering, too, from some erratic camera work.

Hard-luck program of the entire weekend was NBC's special edition of "Meet the Press" Originally it had been scheduled for Sunday night to demonstrate how an interview could be conducted in color by satellite. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was to be in Washington, interviewed by five foreign newsmen in London. Then Mr. Humphrey was sent on his European tour and Secretary of State Dean Rusk was substituted. Came the AFTRA strike and Mr. Rusk cautiously pulled out and former Undersecretary of State George W. Ball — in Paris — was interviewed by the five newsmen in London.

NBC's "Experiment in Television" pretaped for broadcast Sunday afternoon was a most interesting demonstration of acting by a group of performers who communicated by sign language. The actors in this "Theatre of the Deaf," were most effective in scenes from "Hamlet," but also showed their versatility in a song and dance number from "Guys and Dolls."

The strike continues to upset the daytime schedules. Two new game shows are postponed — ABC's "One in a Million" and NBC's "Snap Judgment," both scheduled to start today.

ABC will return "Father Knows Best" to its schedule in place of "General Hospital."

ABC's fall schedule, announced over the weekend, confirmed previous reports that "Batman" will be reduced to a single 30-minute show next season and that lawyer F. Lee Bailey will be host on a weekly interview show, now called "Inside Out" but along "Person-to-Person" lines. The network also announced that Carol Channing and Debbie Reynolds have been signed for some specials next season.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE
By Jack Strass L.L.D.

THE CASE OF THE DETERMINED BOYFRIEND

Vera spent her vacation at a hotel where she alternated between slapping mosquitoes and Herman for getting fresh. A persistent fellow, Herman wanted to become Vera's boyfriend in the worst way but acted in the worst way and made little progress. Consequently, when Vera's vacation finally came to an end, Herman became desperate. After Vera had placed her baggage on the train for the trip home, Herman removed them to his car and insisted that he be allowed to drive her to where she lived.

Unable to convince Herman to put the bags back on the train, Vera reluctantly climbed into Herman's car and permitted him to drive her home. Immediately upon arriving, however, she sued him for false imprisonment.

"There were no bars on my car," was Herman's defense. "Vera could have gotten out of my car any time she so desired."

"That's not true," was Vera's answer. "He had my bags and wouldn't give them back. I had to go where they went. We were inseparable."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you find that Herman captured Vera when he captured her bags?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that it is false imprisonment to illegally prevent a person from going where they choose in the manner desired. In this case, concluded the judge, Herman indirectly prevented Vera from going home on the train by taking her personal belongings.

Council on Arts Growth Cited

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Council on the Arts reports more than 180 communities throughout the state are participating in its program.

Clark Mitze, director of the council made the report to the Senate appropriations committee Monday.

He said when the council was set up 18 months ago only four communities in the state had arts programs. The growth has been far beyond expectations.

The council contracts for symphonies, theater groups and art exhibits for individual communities and arranges programs for schools. He said educational programs have been shown to more than 100,000 students during the past year.

Mitze requested the cut that the House Appropriations Committee made of $50,000 be restored. The council's total request is for $300,000.

The committee also heard requests from the Inter-Agency Council on Outdoor Recreation, the State Supreme Court and the St. Louis and Kansas City courts of appeal.

How five little digits are bringing you closer to everyone you know

How long does it take a letter to travel from a man in Portland, Maine, to his grandmother in the Houston Medical Center? From a woman in Oklahoma City to her soldier son in Fort Bragg, North Carolina? From a girl at the University of Michigan to her parents in Smithtown, New York?

Maybe overnight. Maybe longer.

Because every letter must go through many post offices before it reaches its destination. And since the volume of mail keeps growing at every post office, each letter may wait a little longer to be sorted.

But now there's a new way to get the mail through faster—and bring you closer to everyone you know.

It starts with those five little digits you know as Zip Code. With Zip, postal workers can sort mail faster and route it more directly. With Zip, they will use modern electronic machines that "read" Zip numbers and sort mail fifteen times faster than ever before!

Many people use Zip Codes. But those who don't are holding up the mail for themselves and everyone else.

Add Zip Code to every mailing address—and to your return address, too. Then others can easily Zip their mail to you. When you don't know a Zip Code, call your post office or look it up in their Zip Directory.

Remember those five little digits. They're doing a big job.

HOW ZIP CODE WORKS

Suppose the Zip Code is 60635. The "6" says it goes to the Midwest. The "06" narrows it down to Chicago. The last two digits—"35"—pinpoint the local post office. This eliminates many handling procedures. The letter is sorted faster, and sent more directly to its destination.

Mail moves the country—ZIP CODE moves the mail!

The railroad company offered to pay the cost of installation of red octagon shaped stop signs on both sides of crossings on William, Ruth and North streets and Salcedo Road. The city would be required to police the stop signs, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said.

The railroad recommended the installations as an added safety precaution. The Frisco will be notified of the committee's recommendation, Miller said.

In other action, the council accepted the resignation of George T. Johnson from the board of adjustments. Mayor Kendall Sikes asked the council to think about a replacement.

The board of adjustments handles requests for variations from requirements of zoning ordinances.

A copy of a proposed ordinance, which would require a license for vending machines, was presented for review. The purpose of the ordinance is to control the distribution and operation of vending machines, Miller said.

The ordinance would require each machine to be licensed by the city.

Sikeston has three coin vending machine distributors. Each is charged a $100 merchants license fee annually.

Out-of-town distributors are not charged under the present arrangements. This is unfair to the Sikeston dealers, Miller said.

The proposed ordinance would allow the city to know where the machines are and who is responsible for them. If the city received complaints about the operations of a machine, it could, under the proposed ordinance, revoke the license on a machine and have it put out of service.

The council approved the following appointments: Harold Pitman, airport advisory Board, April 10, 1970; Bruce Lewis, board of adjustments, May 1, 1970; William Bess, board of public works, April 5, 1971; the Rev. Harold Belsheim, Mrs. Gene Nunnelee and Paul Bumbarger, library board, April 17, 1970.

Mrs. Ruth Sharp, Hank Switala and Clovis Lancaster, park board, April 10, 1970.

Ira Keller, planning commission, May 1, 1970; Lawrence Cleek, traffic committee, April 10, 1970; Lee Austin Bowman, zoning commission, May 1, 1970.

A replacement is needed for Harold Vogel on the park board.

Robert Miller was reappointed to the United Nations Association. He serves as a liaison to inform the community of UN activities.

replied to the city's proposal on March 13, with an offer to pay the city of Sikeston a flat rate of $300 per year. Property owners covered by insurance could pay Sikeston $100 per call, under the proposal.

The counter proposal was refused by the city council.

The Sikeston fire department now will not answer fire calls outside the city limits, except in cases of major need, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said.

The $150 charge will be assessed for any run outside the city limits, he noted.

The decision whether the fire call is an emergency is to be made by Fire Chief L.D. Ramsey, Miller said.

If a fire was threatening several houses or human life, the city would be obliged to answer in Miner or outside the city limits, Miller said.

Sikeston has reciprocal agreements to answer fire calls in Morehouse and Matthews in cases of emergency, Miller said.

The town of Miner has been contacting fire departments in Memphis and St. Louis attempting to purchase a fire truck, but none has been found, Wheeler said.

Harold Lewis has been appointed fire chief there and has offered to house a fire truck in a building near his house. Miner residents have offered to serve as volunteer firemen, Wheeler said.

"All we need is a fire truck," he said.

The organization of a fire department will be discussed at a council meeting Thursday in Miner, Wheeler said.

The Chamber of Commerce in Sikeston has sought to induce Miner to merge with Sikeston.

Frank Reeves of the Howard University law faculty, contend that Powell met the constitutional requirements of age, citizenship and residency and the House had no power to exclude him.

Powell brought suit March 9 and asked that a special three-judge court be named to hear the constitutional questions involved.

Bromley contended today that no such special court can be named because it was a House resolution rather than a formal act of Congress that barred Powell from his seat.

The decision of a three-judge court can be appealed directly to the U. S. Supreme Court, bypassing the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Powell sought establishment of the three-judge court to speed a final decision.

return benefit each in the community.

The five star program is a long range program and will be the result of everyday community betterment, Halsell noted.

"There are only two communities from a population of 700 or up from Jackson south to the Arkansas line that are not in this program," Halsell said, "and you are in competition with every city of your own size throughout the whole state."

Cash awards are presented to towns with outstanding programs. There is $10,500 given each year as prize money to towns throughout the state.

Prize money is offered in this manner: There are population categories of 0-500; 501-1,000; 1,001-2,500; 2,501-5,000; 5,001- 10,000. In each category there are five winners each year. New Madrid is in the 2,501 - 5,000 category, Halsell pointed out.

First place winner receives $700; second $600; third $500; fourth $300; fifth $100.

"This prize money is not necessarily the most important part of the local MCB program, but is merely offered as an incentive on the part of the 20 sponsors to encourage various communities throughout the state to participate on an annual basis," Halsell said.

Outline and work book materials are furnished by the state MCB program. Two surveys are available, attitude and industrial.

To participate, the community must complete an entry blank designating a chairman and two projects to be submitted for judging during the year.

Three projects are required, one is awareness and the remaining two are the choice of the community.

Awareness is informing the public about the MCB program. A scrapbook is kept to tabulate materials from two projects the community feels were most outstanding. These projects will be judged and compared with every city in their category.

Halsell said he will take 35mm slides of every phase of the town this summer, and will show them to the people for them to see the town as an outsider does.

Halsell said, "To sum it up, you must be an active community."

Henry Maddox, Director of the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, which is charged with conducting the Community Betterment program said, "Our records show that only 22 per cent of the total incorporated communities are eligible for membership, 85 per cent of all new and expanding industries in Missouri last year chose community betterment member towns.

"This would seem to indicate that towns and cities not participating in the program may be missing the chance to join in a successful cooperative venture designed solely to aid individual communities to help themselves," Maddox said.

Temporary chairman Sam L. Hunter Jr. gave a brief talk on the advantages of the community betterment program.

A report from the nominating committee was given by L. H. Recker and the following were elected by a unanimous vote:

Overall chairman, Harold Sloas; economic development chairman, Sam L. Hunter, Jr.; agriculture, Bert Robbins; business, Kelty Adams; industrial, Bob Blades; tourism, Dorothy Edwards.

Social development chairman, Martha Anderson; education, Sam Bodine; family living, Sarah Dyke; recreation and culture, Sonny Dawson; senior citizens, the Rev. J. H. Holt; youth, Father Staed; beautification chairman, Harriette Reeder; publicity chairman, Don Roberts.

Government services chairman, Charles Hatley; municipal government, Ben Ashley; health and sanitation, Joe Lewis; street lighting and marking, Jimmy Cravens; fire protection, Gallivan Hunter; police protection, Virgil Dees; transportation, W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey; scrapbook, Faye Hedgepeth.

The meeting was concluded with a cry in unison, "Lets go to work."

an annual return of $5,500 and other farmers a similar investment.

"The fewer farmers today are in the hands of better farmers and their future will rise and fall on the ability and ingenuity of the American farmer.

"They are important to the consumer, provide more than 65 per cent of the employment in allied industries, and they purchased $4 billion in tractors and other machinery, $320,000 in rubber products; 320,000 pounds of wire and many other products.

"Today you can classify farmers as of three types, one who makes things happen; one who watches things happen, and the one who does not watch things happen."

have an overall master plan for higher education. He said during the past eight days in hearings for the state colleges and junior colleges he has noted unhealthy competition for funds and students.

McNeal added the Commission on Higher Education should make an in-depth study and develop a master plan for higher education.

Dr. Weaver agreed. He pointed out the university is placing increased emphasis on graduate and professional education.

"Knowledge doubled between 1950 and 1960 and doubled again between 1960 and 1967," he said.

The result is an increase in the courses offered and areas of specialization requiring an increase in faculty. Increasing enrollments also will require an increase n faculty.

Estimated enrollment at the four campuses for next year is 37,650 with 19,850 of these at the Columbia campus.

Monday Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson told the committee he needs eight new assistants to keep up with a rising workload. He has 15 full time assistants now and 40 part time lawyers around the state.

Anderson said the state had 78 cases in the state Supreme Court in the January term this year compared with 18 in the January, 1965 term.

He said recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions have increased the number of criminal cases on appeal and the increase in the size of the state government has resulted in many more requests for opinions.

Earlier the Bi - State Development Agency of St. Louis asked for $325,000 to meet a deficit in operating the bi-state transit system and qualify for matching federal funds.

R. E. Smyser, Jr., executive director of the transit system, said St. Louis is the only major city in the nation which cannot qualify for federal funds.

Smyser said "we have used up all the economies" without further reducing routes or increasing the basic 30 - cent fare.

He said a similar request is pending in the Illinois legislature.

My neighbor has several sons who fill her yard with lively play, fist fights, ball games, or just plain screaming. The two older boys one day set up a lemonade stand with a sign that read:

"Help Send These Boys to Camp!"

Business flourished as if all the neighborhood was glad to bring about the boys' vacation. The biggest part of the work of the venture went to the boys' mother as she constantly had to clean spilled sugar and lemon peels from her kitchen. The following morning she amended the boys' sign to read: "Help! Send These Boys to Camp!"

Caruthersville May Lose Legion Fair

CARUTHERSVILLE -- One of southeast Missouri's three major fairs may be a matter of history due to financial problems, among other things.

It was announced this week that the American Legion Fair held here in the fall for the past 33 years is not being scheduled for 1967. The main reason for the decision by the local veterans' organization is that the fair has lost money for several years.

Members of the Legion fair board also feel they are not up to carrying out the work needed to put on the fair and that few younger men have joined the effort recently. Many of the board members have served since the fair was originated.

There is still hope, however, that there will be more fairs in Carthersville. The Chamber of Commerce president, Henry Tipton, appointed a special committee to study the problem and see if an all-county fair might be held.

The American Legion post indicated that it would be glad to co-operate with any community efforts to put on a fair. The post owns the fairground facilities valued at nearly $75,000. It includes a grandstand, track for harness racing and several permanent buildings.

In recent years the American Legion Fair had gotten away from the "county fair" type of program. Exhibits in home economics, agriculture and livestock had become practically non-existent at the fair.

Horace Dunagan Jr., president of the First State Bank, told the chamber that this fair has been a highlight for years, one of Caruthersville's main attractions.

He said the civic groups should get together and set up an even bigger and better fair with new ideas.

The four-day event has had a rich history, and has attracted thousands of residents from not only Missouri, but neighboring Tennessee and Arkansas. One of its major attractions has been harness racing.

Men like James T. Ahern and George Brown, Legionnaires who have devoted much time to the project, remember the fair not only as an attraction to farmers and businessmen, but as the gathering spot for many of Missouri's most notable politicians.

It has been visited by governors, senators, congressmen, and just about every state officer. The greatest day in the fair was in 1946 when President Harry S. Truman made an appearance.

For 33 years the American Legion Fair has been a tradition in Caruthersville - the one relaxing part of cotton picking time. In 1967 it may be just a memory.

1965: USAC-supervised tests proved that a '65 Ford rode quieter than a $17,000 Rolls-Royce.

1966: After comparison rides, owners of the world's most expensive luxury cars like Jaguar and Mercedes-Benz agreed that a '66 Ford was quieter.

1967: At the Lake Placid Olympic ski jump a '67 Ford took leap after punishing leap and rode away still quiet, still strong. Other '67 Fords went on a bone-jarring steeplechase ride and a gruelling trip up and down the Los Angeles Coliseum steps. The results were always the same: still quiet, still strong.

Year after year, you're ahead in a Ford -ahead in quiet, ahead in strength.

Year after year, we do things you'd never do to demonstrate Ford's quiet and strength. This year's tests were the toughest yet. But the durable Ford came through again —quiet and strong. That's because the 1967 Ford is the strongest, quietest Ford we've ever built. Over 150 important parts have been strengthened and improved. And the '67s offer plenty of convenience and luxury features too. SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission that's fully automatic and fully manual. It all adds up to a pretty strong argument for saving at your Ford Dealer's now.

Quieter because it's stronger...stronger because it's better built.

secretary of the health section of greater Atlanta, Ga.

The railroad company offered to pay the cost of installation of red octagon shaped stop signs on both sides of crossings on William, Ruth and North streets and Salcedo Road. The city would be required to police the stop signs, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said.

The railroad recommended the installations as an added safety precaution. The Frisco will be notified of the committee's recommendation, Miller said.

In other action, the council accepted the resignation of George T. Johnson from the board of adjustments. Mayor Kendall Sikes asked the council to think about a replacement.

The board of adjustments handles requests for variations from requirements of zoning ordinances.

A copy of a proposed ordinance, which would require a license for vending machines, was presented for review. The purpose of the ordinance is to control the distribution and operation of vending machines, Miller said.

The ordinance would require each machine to be licensed by the city.

Sikeston has three coin vending machine distributors. Each is charged a $100 merchants license fee annually.

Out-of-town distributors are not charged under the present arrangements. This is unfair to the Sikeston dealers, Miller said.

The proposed ordinance would allow the city to know where the machines are and who is responsible for them. If the city received complaints about the operations of a machine, it could, under the proposed ordinance, revoke the license on a machine and have it put out of service.

The council approved the following appointments: Harold Pitman, airport advisory Board, April 10, 1970; Bruce Lewis, board of adjustments, May 1, 1970; William Bess, board of public works, April 5, 1971; the Rev. Harold Belsheim, Mrs. Gene Nunnelee and Paul Bumbarger, library board, April 17, 1970.

Mrs. Ruth Sharp, Hank Switala and Clovis Lancaster, park board, April 10, 1970.

Ira Keller, planning commission, May 1, 1970; Lawrence Cleek, traffic committee, April 10, 1970; Lee Austin Bowman, zoning commission, May 1, 1970.

A replacement is needed for Harold Vogel on the park board.

Robert Miller was reappointed to the United Nations Association. He serves as a liaison to inform the community of UN activities.

replied to the city's proposal on March 13, with an offer to pay the city of Sikeston a flat rate of $300 per year. Property owners covered by insurance could pay Sikeston $100 per call, under the proposal.

The counter proposal was refused by the city council.

The Sikeston fire department now will not answer fire calls outside the city limits, except in cases of major need, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said.

The $150 charge will be assessed for any run outside the city limits, he noted.

The decision whether the fire call is an emergency is to be made by Fire Chief L.D. Ramsey, Miller said.

If a fire was threatening several houses or human life, the city would be obliged to answer in Miner or outside the city limits, Miller said.

Sikeston has reciprocal agreements to answer fire calls in Morehouse and Matthews in cases of emergency, Miller said.

The town of Miner has been contacting fire departments in Memphis and St. Louis attempting to purchase a fire truck, but none has been found, Wheeler said.

Harold Lewis has been appointed fire chief there and has offered to house a fire truck in a building near his house. Miner residents have offered to serve as volunteer firemen, Wheeler said.

"All we need is a fire truck," he said.

The organization of a fire department will be discussed at a council meeting Thursday in Miner, Wheeler said.

The Chamber of Commerce in Sikeston has sought to induce Miner to merge with Sikeston.

Frank Reeves of the Howard University law faculty, contend that Powell met the constitutional requirements of age, citizenship and residency and the House had no power to exclude him.

Powell brought suit March 9 and asked that a special three-judge court be named to hear the constitutional questions involved.

Bromley contended today that no such special court can be named because it was a House resolution rather than a formal act of Congress that barred Powell from his seat.

The decision of a three-judge court can be appealed directly to the U. S. Supreme Court, bypassing the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Powell sought establishment of the three-judge court to speed a final decision.

return benefit each in the community.

The five star program is a long range program and will be the result of everyday community betterment, Halsell noted.

"There are only two communities from a population of 700 or up from Jackson south to the Arkansas line that are not in this program," Halsell said, "and you are in competition with every city of your own size throughout the whole state."

Cash awards are presented to towns with outstanding programs. There is $10,500 given each year as prize money to towns throughout the state.

Prize money is offered in this manner: There are population categories of 0-500; 501-1,000; 1,001-2,500; 2,501-5,000; 5,001- 10,000. In each category there are five winners each year. New Madrid is in the 2,501 - 5,000 category, Halsell pointed out.

First place winner receives $700; second $600; third $500; fourth $300; fifth $100.

"This prize money is not necessarily the most important part of the local MCB program, but is merely offered as an incentive on the part of the 20 sponsors to encourage various communities throughout the state to participate on an annual basis," Halsell said.

Outline and work book materials are furnished by the state MCB program. Two surveys are available, attitude and industrial.

To participate, the community must complete an entry blank designating a chairman and two projects to be submitted for judging during the year.

Three projects are required, one is awareness and the remaining two are the choice of the community.

Awareness is informing the public about the MCB program. A scrapbook is kept to tabulate materials from two projects the community feels were most outstanding. These projects will be judged and compared with every city in their category.

Halsell said he will take 35mm slides of every phase of the town this summer, and will show them to the people for them to see the town as an outsider does.

Halsell said, "To sum it up, you must be an active community."

Henry Maddox, Director of the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, which is charged with conducting the Community Betterment program said, "Our records show that only 22 per cent of the total incorporated communities are eligible for membership, 85 per cent of all new and expanding industries in Missouri last year chose community betterment member towns.

"This would seem to indicate that towns and cities not participating in the program may be missing the chance to join in a successful cooperative venture designed solely to aid individual communities to help themselves," Maddox said.

Temporary chairman Sam L. Hunter Jr. gave a brief talk on the advantages of the community betterment program.

A report from the nominating committee was given by L. H. Recker and the following were elected by a unanimous vote:

Overall chairman, Harold Sloas; economic development chairman, Sam L. Hunter, Jr.; agriculture, Bert Robbins; business, Kelty Adams; industrial, Bob Blades; tourism, Dorothy Edwards.

Social development chairman, Martha Anderson; education, Sam Bodine; family living, Sarah Dyke; recreation and culture, Sonny Dawson; senior citizens, the Rev. J. H. Holt; youth, Father Staed; beautification chairman, Harriette Reeder; publicity chairman, Don Roberts.

Government services chairman, Charles Hatley; municipal government, Ben Ashley; health and sanitation, Joe Lewis; street lighting and marking, Jimmy Cravens; fire protection, Gallivan Hunter; police protection, Virgil Dees; transportation, W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey; scrapbook, Faye Hedgepeth.

The meeting was concluded with a cry in unison, "Lets go to work."

More than 1,500 cars are expected to tour the park when the dogwood will be nearest their peak bloom.

an annual return of $5,500 and other farmers a similar investment.

"The fewer farmers today are in the hands of better farmers and their future will rise and fall on the ability and ingenuity of the American farmer.

"They are important to the consumer, provide more than 65 per cent of the employment in allied industries, and they purchased $4 billion in tractors and other machinery, $320,000 in rubber products; 320,000 pounds of wire and many other products.

"Today you can classify farmers as of three types, one who makes things happen; one who watches things happen, and the one who does not watch things happen."

A film was shown on modern day farm investment and management.

have an overall master plan for higher education. He said during the past eight days in hearings for the state colleges and junior colleges he has noted unhealthy competition for funds and students.

McNeal added the Commission on Higher Education should make an in-depth study and develop a master plan for higher education.

Dr. Weaver agreed. He pointed out the university is placing increased emphasis on graduate and professional education.

"Knowledge doubled between 1950 and 1960 and doubled again between 1960 and 1967," he said.

The result is an increase in the courses offered and areas of specialization requiring an increase in faculty. Increasing enrollments also will require an increase n faculty.

Estimated enrollment at the four campuses for next year is 37,650 with 19,850 of these at the Columbia campus.

Monday Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson told the committee he needs eight new assistants to keep up with a rising workload. He has 15 full time assistants now and 40 part time lawyers around the state.

Anderson said the state had 78 cases in the state Supreme Court in the January term this year compared with 18 in the January, 1965 term.

He said recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions have increased the number of criminal cases on appeal and the increase in the size of the state government has resulted in many more requests for opinions.

Earlier the Bi - State Development Agency of St. Louis asked for $325,000 to meet a deficit in operating the bi-state transit system and qualify for matching federal funds.

R. E. Smyser, Jr., executive director of the transit system, said St. Louis is the only major city in the nation which cannot qualify for federal funds.

Smyser said "we have used up all the economies" without further reducing routes or increasing the basic 30 - cent fare.

He said a similar request is pending in the Illinois legislature.

Ex-Wife Sues Comedian For Defaming Character

NEW YORK (AP) - Comedian Woody Allen's former wife, Harleen, charging he held her up to public ridicule in his television routines, has filed a $1 million defamation of character suit against him and the National Broadcasting Co.

A MAN shovels snow for the same reason he climbs a mountain -- because it's there.

Nathan Nielsen.

My neighbor has several sons who fill her yard with lively play, fist fights, ball games, or just plain screaming. The two older boys one day set up a lemonade stand with a sign that read:

"Help Send These Boys to Camp!"

Business flourished as if all the neighborhood was glad to bring about the boys' vacation. The biggest part of the work of the venture went to the boys' mother as she constantly had to clean spilled sugar and lemon peels from her kitchen. The following morning she amended the boys' sign to read: "Help! Send These Boys to Camp!"

Caruthersville May Lose Legion Fair

CARUTHERSVILLE -- One of southeast Missouri's three major fairs may be a matter of history due to financial problems, among other things.

It was announced this week that the American Legion Fair held here in the fall for the past 33 years is not being scheduled for 1967. The main reason for the decision by the local veterans' organization is that the fair has lost money for several years.

Members of the Legion fair board also feel they are not up to carrying out the work needed to put on the fair and that few younger men have joined the effort recently. Many of the board members have served since the fair was originated.

There is still hope, however, that there will be more fairs in Carthersville. The Chamber of Commerce president, Henry Tipton, appointed a special committee to study the problem and see if an all-county fair might be held.

The American Legion post indicated that it would be glad to co-operate with any community efforts to put on a fair. The post owns the fairground facilities valued at nearly $75,000. It includes a grandstand, track for harness racing and several permanent buildings.

In recent years the American Legion Fair had gotten away from the "county fair" type of program. Exhibits in home economics, agriculture and livestock had become practically non-existent at the fair.

Horace Dunagan Jr., president of the First State Bank, told the chamber that this fair has been a highlight for years, one of Caruthersville's main attractions.

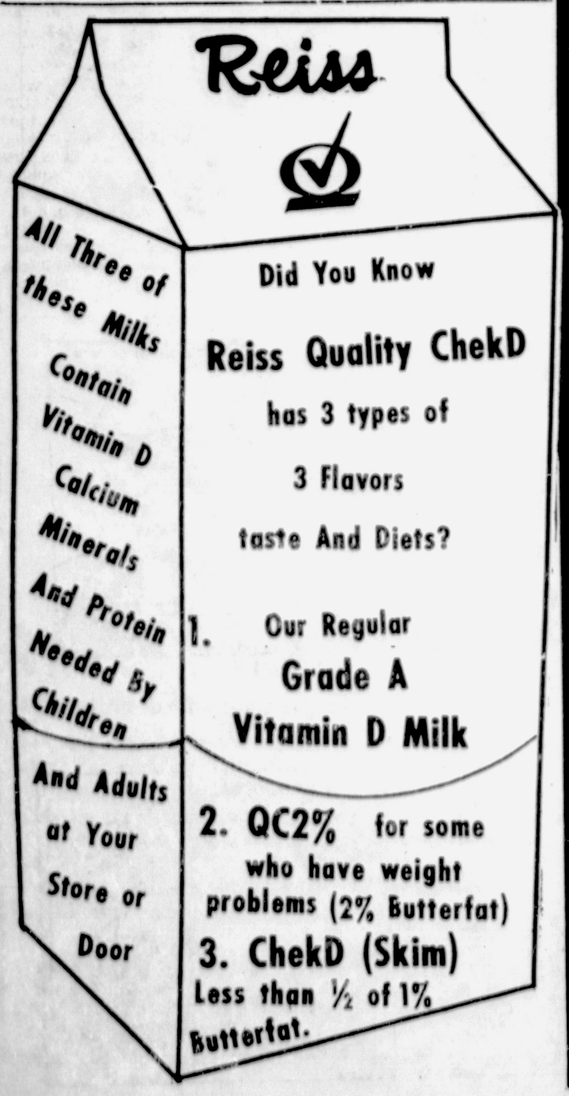

He said the civic groups should get together and set up an even bigger and better fair with new ideas.

The four-day event has had a rich history, and has attracted thousands of residents from not only Missouri, but neighboring Tennessee and Arkansas. One of its major attractions has been harness racing.

Men like James T. Ahern and George Brown, Legionnaires who have devoted much time to the project, remember the fair not only as an attraction to farmers and businessmen, but as the gathering spot for many of Missouri's most notable politicians.

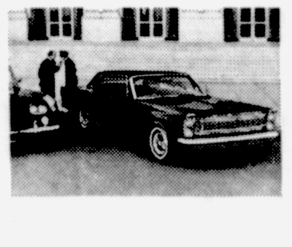

It has been visited by governors, senators, congressmen, and just about every state officer. The greatest day in the fair was in 1946 when President Harry S. Truman made an appearance.

For 33 years the American Legion Fair has been a tradition in Caruthersville - the one relaxing part of cotton picking time. In 1967 it may be just a memory.

1965: USAC-supervised tests proved that a '65 Ford rode quieter than a $17,000 Rolls-Royce.

1966: After comparison rides, owners of the world's most expensive luxury cars like Jaguar and Mercedes-Benz agreed that a '66 Ford was quieter.

1967: At the Lake Placid Olympic ski jump a '67 Ford took leap after punishing leap and rode away still quiet, still strong. Other '67 Fords went on a bone-jarring steeplechase ride and a gruelling trip up and down the Los Angeles Coliseum steps. The results were always the same: still quiet, still strong.

Year after year, you're ahead in a Ford -ahead in quiet, ahead in strength.

Year after year, we do things you'd never do to demonstrate Ford's quiet and strength. This year's tests were the toughest yet. But the durable Ford came through again—quiet and strong. That's because the 1967 Ford is the strongest, quietest Ford we've ever built. Over 150 important parts have been strengthened and improved. And the '67s offer plenty of convenience and luxury features too. SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission that's fully automatic and fully manual. It all adds up to a pretty strong argument for saving at your Ford Dealer's now.

Quieter because it's stronger...stronger because it's better built.
